

TOLO '74

October 3, 1974

Mr. Jess, Hurley...

I am very pleased and proud to present you with our 1974 Tolo Annual. If you ever have time, always feel free to come visit Franklin. I'll be very happy to see you again.

With best wishes,

June Wong

1974 Bellamy Award Representative (alternate)

Days of Future Passed

The birth of three years begins with the dawn of academics. As morning starts the day, so the students enter their high school years as Sophomores. Pausing only for a short lunchbreak, they

morning

move quickly on to the afternoon, filled with activities and sports. As Juniors, they have moved past the half-way mark. The evening arrives with drama and Seniors, bringing them closer to the end of their days at Franklin. With the sunset comes the future of the 1973-74 class.

Dawn

*Dawn is a feeling,
a beautiful ceiling
The smell of grass,
just makes you pass
into a dream.*

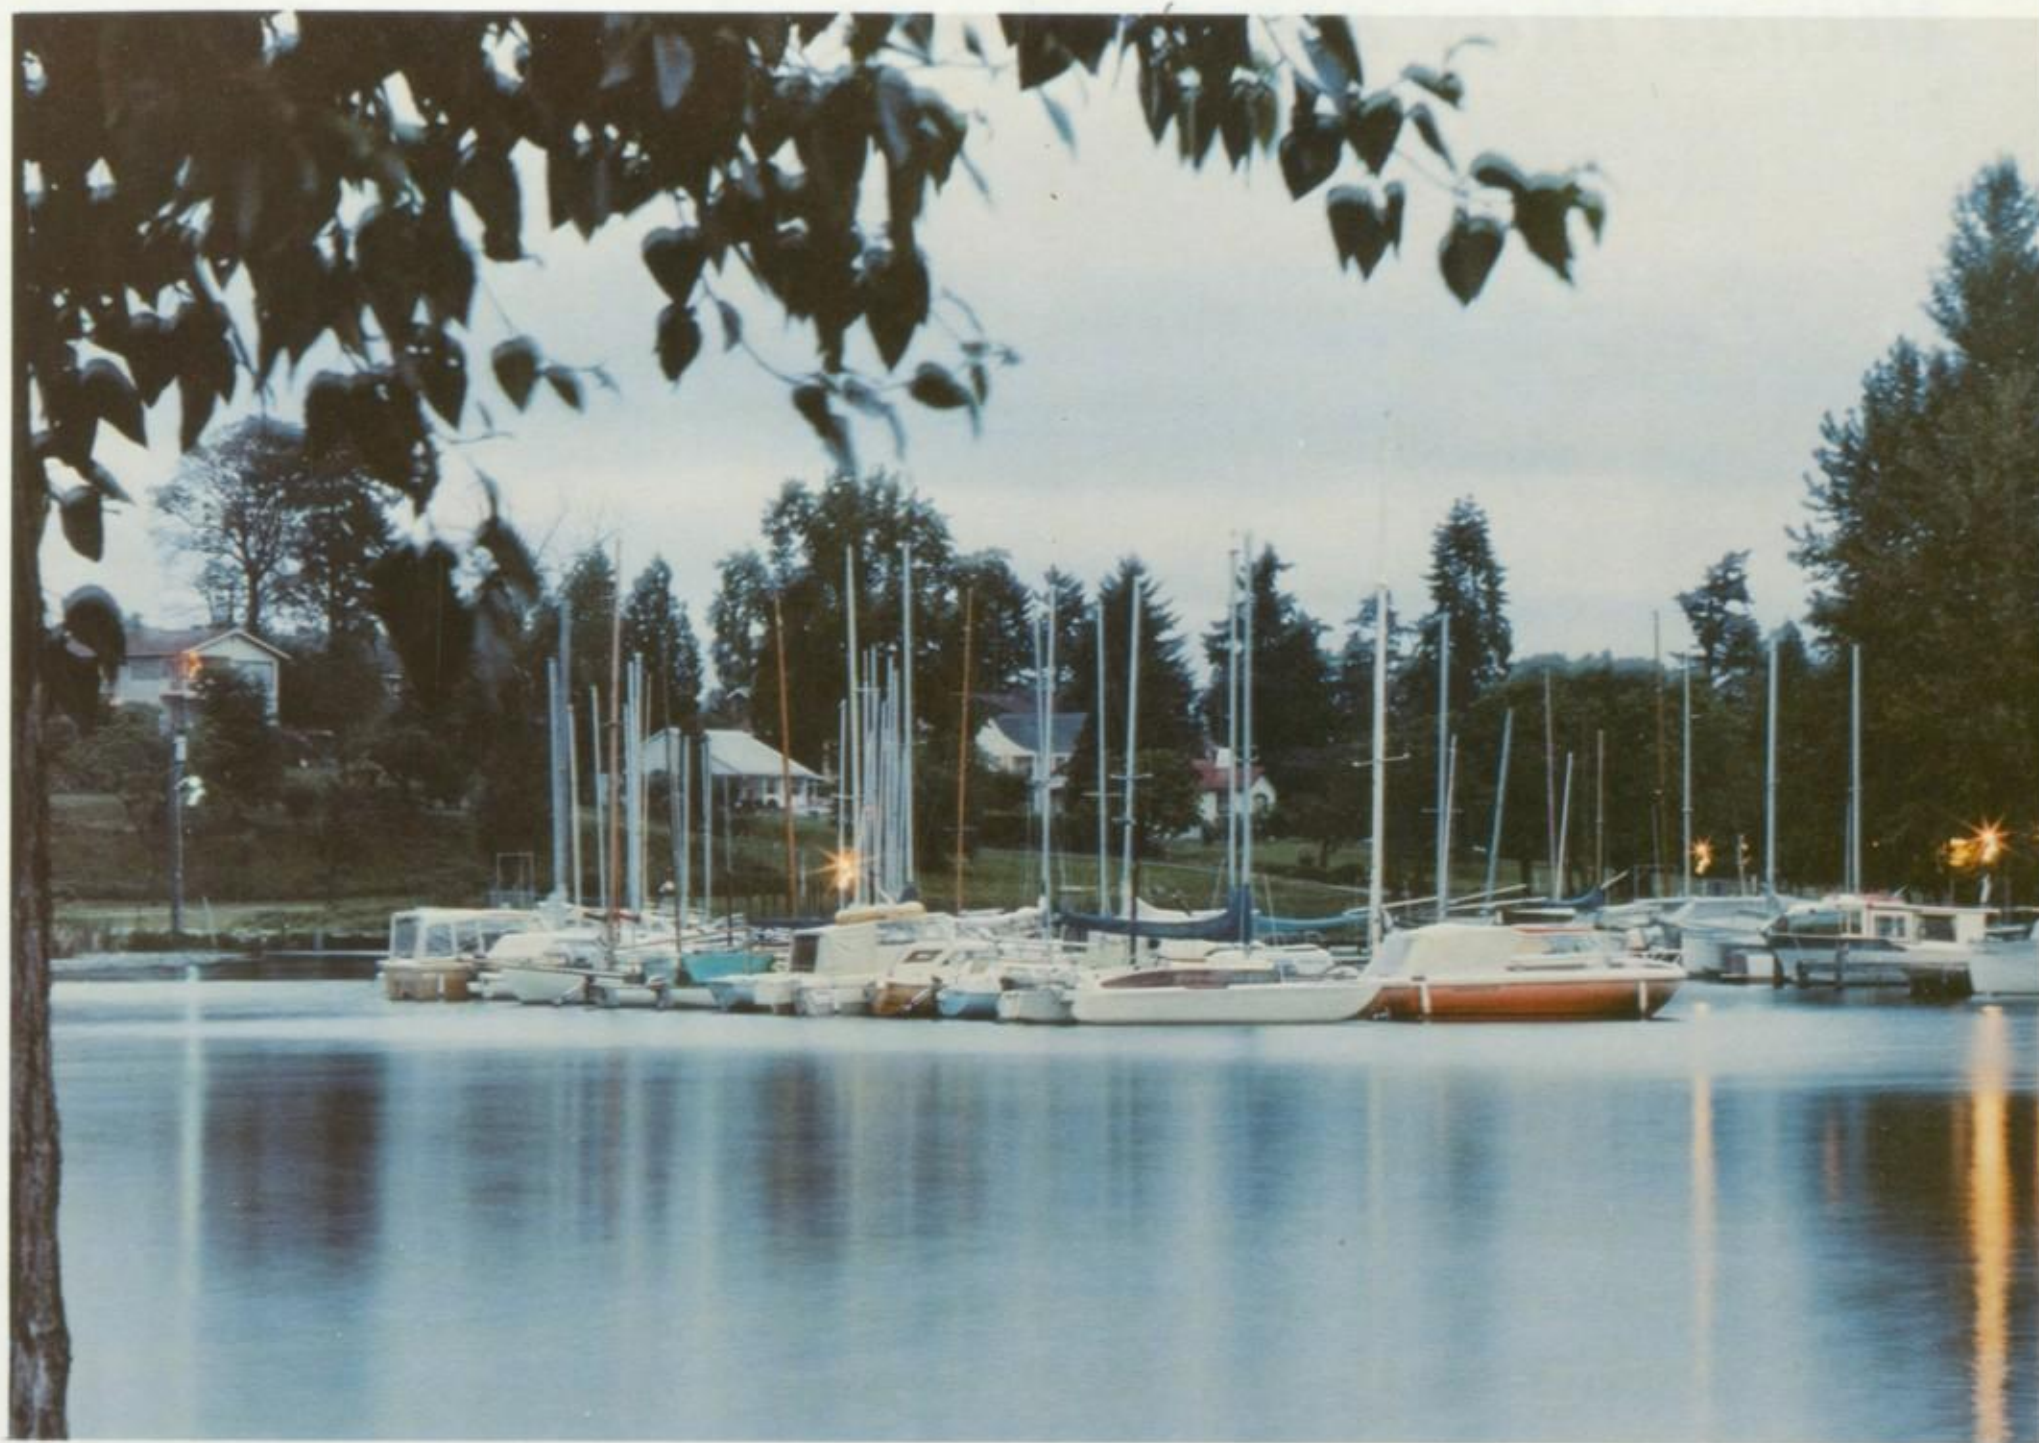

*You look around you
things they astound*

*So breathe in deep,
you're not asleep;
open your mind.*

*You're here today, no future fears
This day will last a thousand years
if you want it to.*

*Do you understand, that all over this land
There's a feeling In minds far and near, things are becoming clear Of a meaning
Now that you're knowing, pleasure starts flowing
It's true life flies, faster than eyes could ever see.
This day will last a thousand years
if you want it to.*

Academics

*You look around you,
things they astound you;*

Due to a decline in enrollment over the past years, Franklin opened its doors to the '73-'74 school year with a reduction in staffing. The programs of studies offered to students were not severely curtailed although classes were limited and a few over-sized.

In class, some students drifted away while others opened their minds to enriching new experiences and a world of knowledge. "In minds far and near, things are becoming clear of a meaning . . ."

Art

The Art Department had only two teachers to teach and help students interested in learning basic art techniques. Bob Arnold, department head, had his students work on the wheel, hand build with clay, and work on sculptures in clay and wood, while Cary Kodama taught commercial art students basic elements and principles of design.

Some students displayed and sold their ceramic works during the International Dinner held in April.

Business Education

Under the head of Malver Haynes, the Business Education Department offered classes in typing, accounting, shorthand, retailing, office machines, office practice, and business law.

Students in retailing operated the Quaker Shoppe before school and during lunch selling candies and school needs under the supervision of Dorothy Hunter. Money profitted from the business went directly to the Associated Student Body school fund.

The Business Department also offered proficiency statements in areas of accounting, spelling, clerical, secretarial, and retailing.

Foreign Language

Besides the three main foreign languages—French, German, and Spanish—offered in many high schools, the Franklin Foreign Language Department also offered classes in Chinese and Japanese. Advanced classes were offered to students beginning their third year of a language on a continuous study basis and students were not limited to one credit per semester as in regular classes.

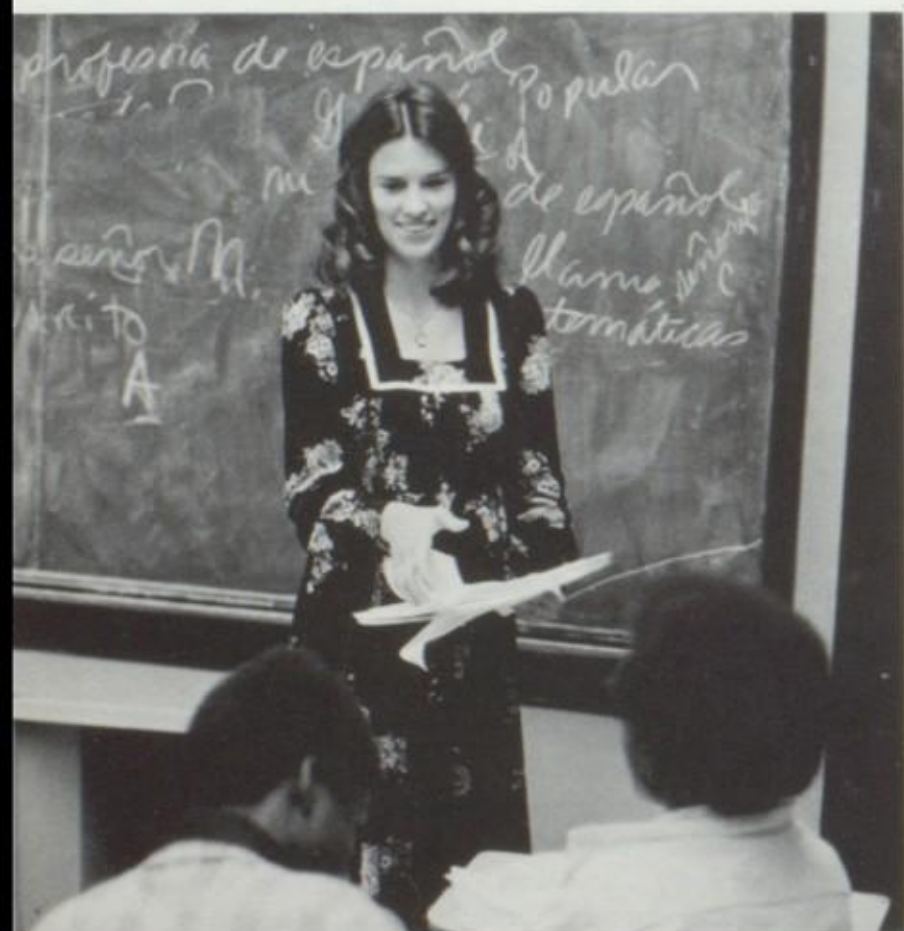

Some students were involved in the Amigos de las Americas program. This country-wide program gave students a chance to help immunize Latin American children and work in areas of need during the summer months. At the same time those who participated tested their knowledge and ability to communicate in a foreign language and also gained new awarenesses and experiences.

Home Economics

Learning how to budget finances pays off in days of inflation. The students enrolled in home economics classes the past year not only learned money-saving techniques, but also gained knowledge in sewing, cooking, and family planning. All home economics classes were open to both males and females.

Sewing for Profit was offered for the second year, although the class was basically a regular sewing class. Students learned the usage of sewing machines and how not to waste material yardage. Some even began to sew their own wardrobe.

Students in cooking classes and the F.E.A.S.T. program planned nutritionally balanced diets and cooked their own meals.

Industrial Arts

Whether drafting a blue print, building a house, or repairing a car, the Industrial Arts Department provided the skills. George Ehr Gott, department head, supervised his construction technology class in building a house at nearby Sicks' Stadium. Student construction workers raised beams and installed all wiring.

In architectural drawing, Gerald Vann taught his students the proper uses of a T and L square and a straight edge, all of them necessary in drafting a blue print.

The Industrial Arts Department welcomed a new colleague this year. John Svensson taught gas engines, and girls' auto shop.

Language Arts

The Language Arts Department completed its third year of the Total Option Program (T.O.P.) of offering 10 weeks, 1 quarter, language arts classes this year. This program gave students a wider selection of classes in the Language Arts Department ranging from American literature to word study.

Students were opened up to various aspects of studies within the language arts field and were not regimented through the basic L.A. 10a, 10b, 11a, 11b, and 12a courses needed for graduation.

Full semester classes were also offered in humanities, drama, newspaper production plus more and honors language arts classes were open to students who excel in this subject.

Mathematics

With the highest number of students enrolled in mathematics courses in the entire city, Franklin's Mathematics Department offered various levels of mathematics ranging from general math to calculus.

Of the 977 students enrolled or approximately 70 per cent of the student body, 12 per cent were honors mathematics students and 22 per cent continuous progress students.

Although the percentage of honors students showed a decline from past years, these students were as capable as any in preceding years and showed it on the National Math Contest held annually.

Music

Participating in assemblies, games, and on special occasions during the school year were Franklin's bands, choirs, and ensembles from our performing Music Department.

Under the directorship of Charles Chinn, department head, the Jazz Lab practiced often and competed in jazz festivals in and out of Washington state.

At the vocal end of the department was David Pence. He directed the Honors', Gospel, and Bel Canto Choirs.

Students in the ethnic performing groups, Samoan, Afro Drum, and Jazz Ensembles, provided music with the accompaniment of cultural dancers.

Physical Education/ Health

Physical activities including competitive individual and team sports, and calisthenics were a part of the daily routine in physical education classes for both men and women. Exercising, work-outs on the weight machines, and organized games of football, basketball, volleyball, and baseball not only kept students active but physically fit as well.

Specialized classes were offered in tennis, gung fu, beginning and advanced floor hockey, and seasonal competitive sports prepared students to compete on varsity levels.

Courses in co-ed health covered personal and mental health, the human body, first aid and safety, and other health-related topics. A demonstration by a team of Seattle Fire Department paramedics was also given to health students.

Science

The number of science students has increased over the years and the capabilities, potential, and eagerness of students has also increased according to William Motzer, department head. Learning quantitative and qualitative analysis, studying motion, force, and velocity, and viewing cells through a microscope covers only a small part of the basics taught in various science classes.

Biology, chemistry, and physics classes were offered as lab science classes which met the requirements for high school graduation. For more advanced students with a great interest in science, classes were also offered in Physics III and Chemistry III after they completed the regular courses in levels I and II.

Social Studies

The Social Studies Department showed its uniqueness and diversity by offering classes in economics, political science, Latin American affairs, geography, and law and society, aside from the basic world history, U.S. history, and contemporary problems classes, available in any high school.

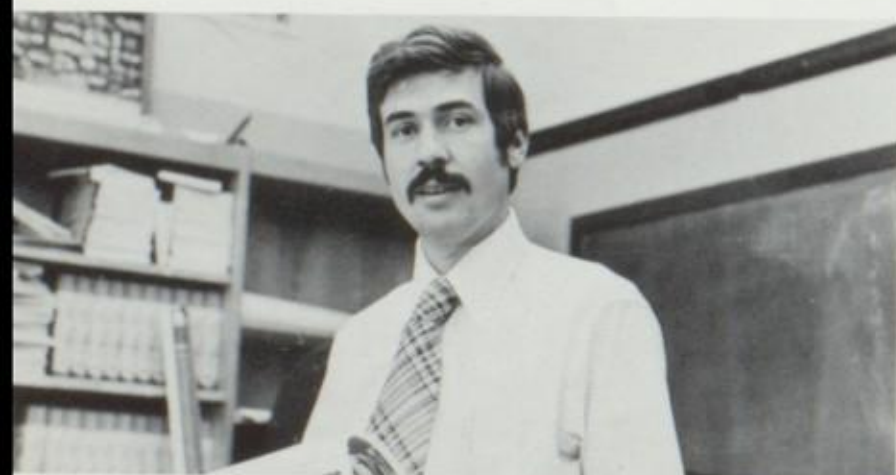

Law and society classes instructed by Richard Nagel, department head, gave students an introduction to the American legal system with emphasis on criminal law, civil liberties, and consumer protection. A field trip to King County Superior Court to watch trial proceedings provided students with actual courtroom experience and prepared them for a mock trial of their own.

Special Programs and Student Services

In addition to our basic curriculum of classes, special programs were offered in English as a second language, traffic education, Project Franklin, and vocational rehabilitation. Except for Project Franklin for men, all classes were located on campus.

Student services were plentiful ranging from consultants to aid from the nurse. Secretaries in various school offices were busy as ever typing letters to parents and the like. The counselors were loaded with college applications from seniors but were never too busy to help students plan their program and register students. As a new service to students, the Franklin staff accepted a consultant in basic skills, Dan Maret. He administered a standardized basic skills test to all sophomores and worked mainly with the Language Arts Department.

Administration

From the beginning of school in September to the closing day in June, the Administration worked and planned the school budget, enforced school district rules and Franklin policies, and planned a new and unique attendance policy.

The Administration worked continuously throughout the year encountering various problems met in operation of a high school. They were responsible for personnel, supplies, curriculum, and more.

A.S.B. Officers

A.S.B. Committees

The Associated Student Body Committees consisted of a number of Franklin students who were willing to share some of their time to organize the annual Walk-a-thon Bike-a-thon, and many other activities that made the year so successful. Among the various committees were: Sales, Elections, Art and Publicity, Student Exchange, Quakers of the Month, Walk-a-thon, Bike-a-thon, and Community Relations.

Songleaders

By forming two squads, our 1974 cheerleaders were able to attend almost all of our sports events. From the smallest, almost forgotten event, to the most crucial championship challenge, our pep squads could be found somewhere in the crowds. The GREEN squad included Arlene Ambo, Darcy Evans, Karen Ishii, Karen Milnor and Angela Young. The BLACK squad included Mary Gilmore, Bev Kashino, JoAnne Matsuhira, Nina Vicors and Lisa Wills. Small in numbers, but big in spirit were yell leaders Louis Egashira, Danny Fulgencio and Scott Randall. Advising the songleaders was Marlys Efaw.

Homecoming '73, sponsored by Pep Club, was a week long schedule of events held October 15-20. Using the theme "Let's Get It On," the week began with a pie-eating contest. Events throughout the week included a penny competition between the three classes, a slave auction, an assembly including the crowning of three student-elected spirits, and the Homecoming '73 dance featuring Cameo. Bringing the week to a close was the spirit-filled football game against Garfield.

Walk-a-thon

The annual Franklin Walk-a-thon and Bike-a-thon, sponsored by the A.S.B., was held at Seward Park on October 27. A total of approximately $900 was collected, and each participant contributed their proceeds to two activities of their choice. A picnic was also held for those who participated during the successful event.

A large crowd gathered for the picnic and awaited final tabulation of miles at the Walk and Bike-a-thon headquarters located at Seward Park.

Bike-a-thon

The winners of ten-speed bikes for bringing in the most money were Grant Shibuya and Diane Franklin. The farthest walker and biker were Dexter Lesaca with 33 miles and Grant Shibuya with 100 miles, respectively. The energetic students who walked over 30 miles were: Roberta Barnes, Al Dong, and David Rock. Bikers riding over 75 miles included: Corey Chin, Rene Dong, Alan Carrasca, and Denis Kempe. The spirited faculty members who participated in the event were: Frank Hanawalt, who walked 6 miles; Rodrigo de la Vega Magat, and Anna Nielson, who walked 9 miles each; and O.L. Mitchell, who rode his bike 38 miles.

Quakerettes

Thespians

As well as putting on plays for the Franklin students and competing in festivals throughout the Northwest, this group of students dedicated to acting, found time to organize fund raising events to keep their Thespian activities going.

Pep Club

Whether supplying food for the sports' teams, sponsoring Homecoming Week, decorating for special events, selling pep pins, or participating in fund raising activities. The members included: Abernethy, J.; Asher, R.; Baylor, K.; Baylor, R.; Beckman, V.; Carrasca, D.; Cassidy, C.; Caver, A.; Chinn, K.; Croce, H.; Cohen, S.; Eskenazi, R.; Fisse, L.; Fujita, J.; Gilmore, M.; Hashimoto, S.; Hayakawa, J.; Ikejiri, S.; Ishii, K.; Jezik, J.; Jone, C.; Jorgenson, C.; Kimura, E.; Lamb, B.; Lee, V.; Lew, M.; Mar, C.; Matsuhira, J.; Mitchell, D.; Mori, A.; Myre, C.; Neslin, D.; Neslin, P.; Parramore, K.; Rock, W.; Smith, K.; Smith, M.; Tanagi, J.; Taki, K.; Taki, S.; Turner, F.; Turner, R.; Yee, D.; Yee, J.; and Young, B.

Spades

Spades had an active year fulfilling their goal to be a helpful community service in the Seattle area by working with the handicapped people. Spades stands for Spastic Aids and is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. This year's Spades' many activities included several parties, field trips to Sonics Games, movies, visitations to the homes of handicapped children, and their annual Christmas Stocking Sale which raised funds to support research in cerebral palsy.

Christine Hicks provided companionship for a handicapped child as they both enjoyed a Spades sponsored party.

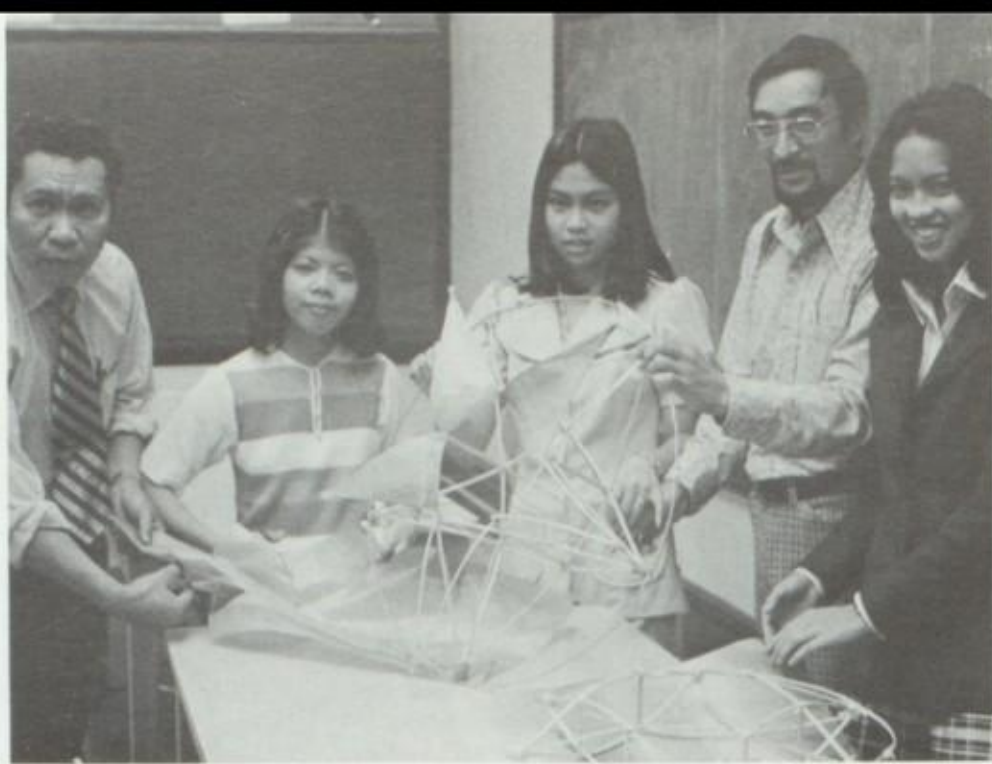

Providing refreshments at one of numerous parties at the Seattle Handicapped Center were Helen Ikeda, co-president; and Debbie Laundry.

Officers for the past year were: Tilda Bulanon and Helen Ikeda, co-presidents; Nancy Shiota, vice president; Kelly Chinn, secretary; and Jerry Harleman, advisor. Contributing to this club were: Martha Butz, Christine Chan, Pearl Chan, Kim Chinn, Kathy Chinn, Evelyn Dood, Janet Fujita, Christine Hicks, Linda Iguchi, Hillis Jones, Shirley Kook, Barbara Krause, Judy Krause, Vivian Lee, Fay Lim, Annette Louie, Jeannette Louie, Dorrienne Mar, Christine Matsumoto, Paulette Monce, Leslie Sumita, Doreen Terao, Steve Terao, June Wong, Sharon Yamamoto, and Jeannie Yee.

Filipino Club

"Dakilang Kabataan Ng Mataas Na Paaralang Franklin" was the official name for the Filipino Club, meaning "Noble Youths of Franklin High School." This club's goals were to develop leadership, programs, and activities imparting the Filipino culture by having speakers, films, and forming a Filipino dance troupe. Various activities included a Bake Sale, Button Sale, and participation in Franklin's Ethnic Week.

Chinese Club

This year's Chinese Club successfully achieved most of their goals under the supervision of their advisor, Ed Lew. The club had several fund raising events such as a Christmas party, a luncheon, and car washes. Most of the funds went toward purchasing books and magazines printed in Chinese for the Franklin High School library, and events for Asian Day during Franklin's Ethnic Week. After school ping pong, films, and a soccer game against another high school in Vancouver, B.C. were a few of the numerous activities made possible this year by the club.

Spanish Club

A summer in Mexico was what the Spanish Club has been aiming at since forming their club this year. Working hard to raise money for the trip, the group sold cookies on Parent's Night, held a recycling project for glass and newspaper, and operated sales booths during Ethnic Week.

The members of the club studied the culture of Mexico and all speak Spanish fluently through the advance Spanish class at Franklin. They plan to visit Mexico City and the vicinity around it, applying the knowledge they learned.

Foreign Exchange

Unable to send an exchange student overseas this year, Foreign Exchange continued to raise money to finance one for the 1974-75 school year. The club enlarged their treasury with money making endeavors such as a car wash and Cookbook Sale.

Officers not pictured were: Lynda Henderson, vice president; Sharon Ikejiri, treasurer; and Dariene Porter co-corresponding secretary. Members not pictured were: Myrna Barkey, Tilda Bulanon, Louis Egashira, Renee Eskenazi, Danny Fulgencio, Steve Hasegawa, Stacie Hashimoto, Karen Ishii, Jeanne Jezik, Mary Kamihara, Wayne Lim, Ann Muramoto, Robin Rogel, Sharon Taki, Dana Wing, and June Wong.

Clockwise from top left: Lynn Fisse listened attentively at a meeting as Gordon Habu, Jami Leong and Betty Mihara watched Fay Lim look through a stack of suggested ideas for Ethnic Week. Betty Mihara, chairman of chairmen and Janet Hayakawa, co-corresponding secretary; looked on as Becky Peterson, secretary; types out schedule of events. Responsible for the successful year were Bryan Maruhashi, president and Aimee Shigaki, advisor.

Chess

Having defeated the O'Dea team in the first match of the 1973-74 season, Franklin advanced one match closer to their goal of winning both the Metro and State high school tournaments. Team members included: Ronnie Harui, captain; Clifford Eng, Jeff Omori, Curtis Suyematsu, Joseph Weinstein, and alternates Terry Saiki, Houston Barclay, and Kenny Wong. Their advisor was Rodrigo de la Vega Magat.

Foreign Language Basketball

Something relatively new at Franklin was Foreign Language Basketball. The idea was originated by Lynn Copland, Spanish teacher, and a former student, Tony White. Since the creation of the games, student interest and enthusiasm in the foreign language classes increased and basketball competition expanded to include one team from each of the 21 classes. Each class, coached by its teacher, picked a name representative of the language the class was studying. The games, held at 7 a.m. in the Franklin Boys' Gym, were played on both the teachers' and students' own time. At the end of the tournament, the team that held the best record for the games played received a trophy with the team's name engraved on it.

Tolo Newspaper

The Tolo Newspaper Staff started the presses running in September with an energetic and optimistic crew of 19, growing to 28 by spring semester. With a "nose for news" the staff reported sports events, school news, wrote editorials, feature stories, and made headlines. The staff attended workshops and competed in journalism contests to bring inspiration and innovative techniques to the Franklin Tolo.

The Tolo nameplate was changed from the black and bold one last year to a beautiful scene of Mt. Rainier sketched behind the name Franklin Tolo, drawn by an art student, Sharon Nakamura.

Creative Writing Magazine

A magazine containing poems, short stories, essays, and other kinds of literary works was printed in the spring by the Creative Writing Magazine Lab. The students in the class used their imagination and originality to compose literary works. Besides the standard form of poetry, the magazine included concrete poems, where the words are put together to form a picture; and Haiku poems, which are Japanese poems. The works were then selected and printed in the Creative Writing Magazine.

Debate

The debate squad that represented Franklin in competition at the University of Puget Sound, Pacific Lutheran University, Washington State University, and Seattle University was the largest team Franklin has had in recent years. Emphasis on individual speaking events strengthened the team's optimism while oral interpretation proved to be one of their strongest events.

Quaker Shoppe

The Quaker Shoppe was sponsored by the Retailing II class and was opened every morning and both lunches to offer everyone at Franklin an assortment of candy, gum, school supplies, and miscellaneous items. The students who operated the store were required to attend a class to learn skills in mark up, extension, how to put up window displays, finding jobs, how to operate a cash register, and experience the feeling of managing a shop by themselves. Each quarter the shopkeepers traded positions so that each member could take on different responsibilities. Positions essential in running the Quaker Shoppe were manager, personnel, advertisers, displayers, and buyers.

Business Club

Leadership is what the Business Club emphasized through the activities that were held. The club had successful fund raising events such as a Cupcake Sale and a Popcorn Ball Sale. Other activities included a field trip to local businesses, public relation speakers, and a fashion show.

Christmas

JOY TO THE WORLD

Franklin students promoted the holiday season with various activities which included A.S.B. sponsored photo sessions with Santa, a candy cane sale by the African Drum Ensemble, a Junior Class Quakergram Sale, and a talent-filled Christmas assembly.

Among the Senior Class decorations on the first floor were the traditional Christmas tree, a Spanish pinata, and a Hannukkah dreidle.

Inspired by "The Twelve Days of Christmas," the Junior Class trimmed the halls of the second floor with banners that represented each of the twelve gift-giving days mentioned in the carol. An unexpected surprise came to Franklin when the traditionally bare third floor halls were donned with Christmas cheer, courtesy of the Sophomore Class.

Sports

*Something calls to me,
the trees are calling me near.*

I've got to find out why those gentle voices I hear.

Explain it all with a sigh.

Cross Country

Without a front runner, the Varsity ran as a team to a winning season and finished second in in the Metro South, while the Little Green's took the Southern Division J.V. Championship.

Clockwise from left: Franklin's Stuart Luke and David Rock at the start of the last meet of a successful season; Marty Opacich on the Metro course; Andy Paszkowski, co-captain, and Peter Kimes, most improved award winner, on the Arboretum course; Hugh Miyamoto, No. 1 man and inspiration winner, in the Iwad with Steve Hasegawa, co-captain, and Denis Kempe, outstanding sophomore award winner, on the Metro course.

Women's Cross Country

Unable to form a full squad until mid-season, this team finished in the cellar of the Southern Division. Rookie Coach, Karyn Denecke, was pleased with the effects by these young ladies despite a disappointing season.

The aftermath of his last meet reflect three long years for Bryan Maruhashi.

Dazedly running was Marianne Tomita, inspirational award winner.

Volleyball

Since the introduction of Volleyball into the Metro sports program four years ago, Franklin has always been a driving force in the race for the league championship. Twice they've gone undefeated through a season and twice they've been beaten by Ingraham in the championship game.

The 1973 season was no exception to the fine display of skill and determination that are characteristics of a Quaker team. The season record was 9 wins and 4 losses, not quite as outstanding as their coach, Laurel Hammer, would have liked, but still a record that kept the Quakers in contention for the Southern Division crown all season long.

The 1973 Franklin Varsity football team concluded their season with a rather disappointing note. Their season record of 3 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie was not up to the usual Quaker standards. The highlight of the season came with a 6-0 upset victory over the Metro squad from Queen Anne High School. According to Head Coach Brennan King, the season was a disappointing one, but still he was happy with the hard work and perseverance put forth by his 1973 Varsity squad.

The forming of a Quaker end sweep. Leading the play were Bill Fair (32) and Gordon Habu (61) followed by ball carrier, Ron Sims (21).

J.V. Football

Coached by Byron Johnson and O.L. Mitchell, the Quaker Junior Varsity compiled a 4 and 0 season record. This outstanding record put them in first place in the Southern Division.

Women's Tennis

Due to a technicality in the opening match against Cleveland, which the Quakers were forced to forfeit, Franklin's Women's Tennis team was kept from participating in the Metro play-offs. The only legitimate loss was to undefeated West Seattle.

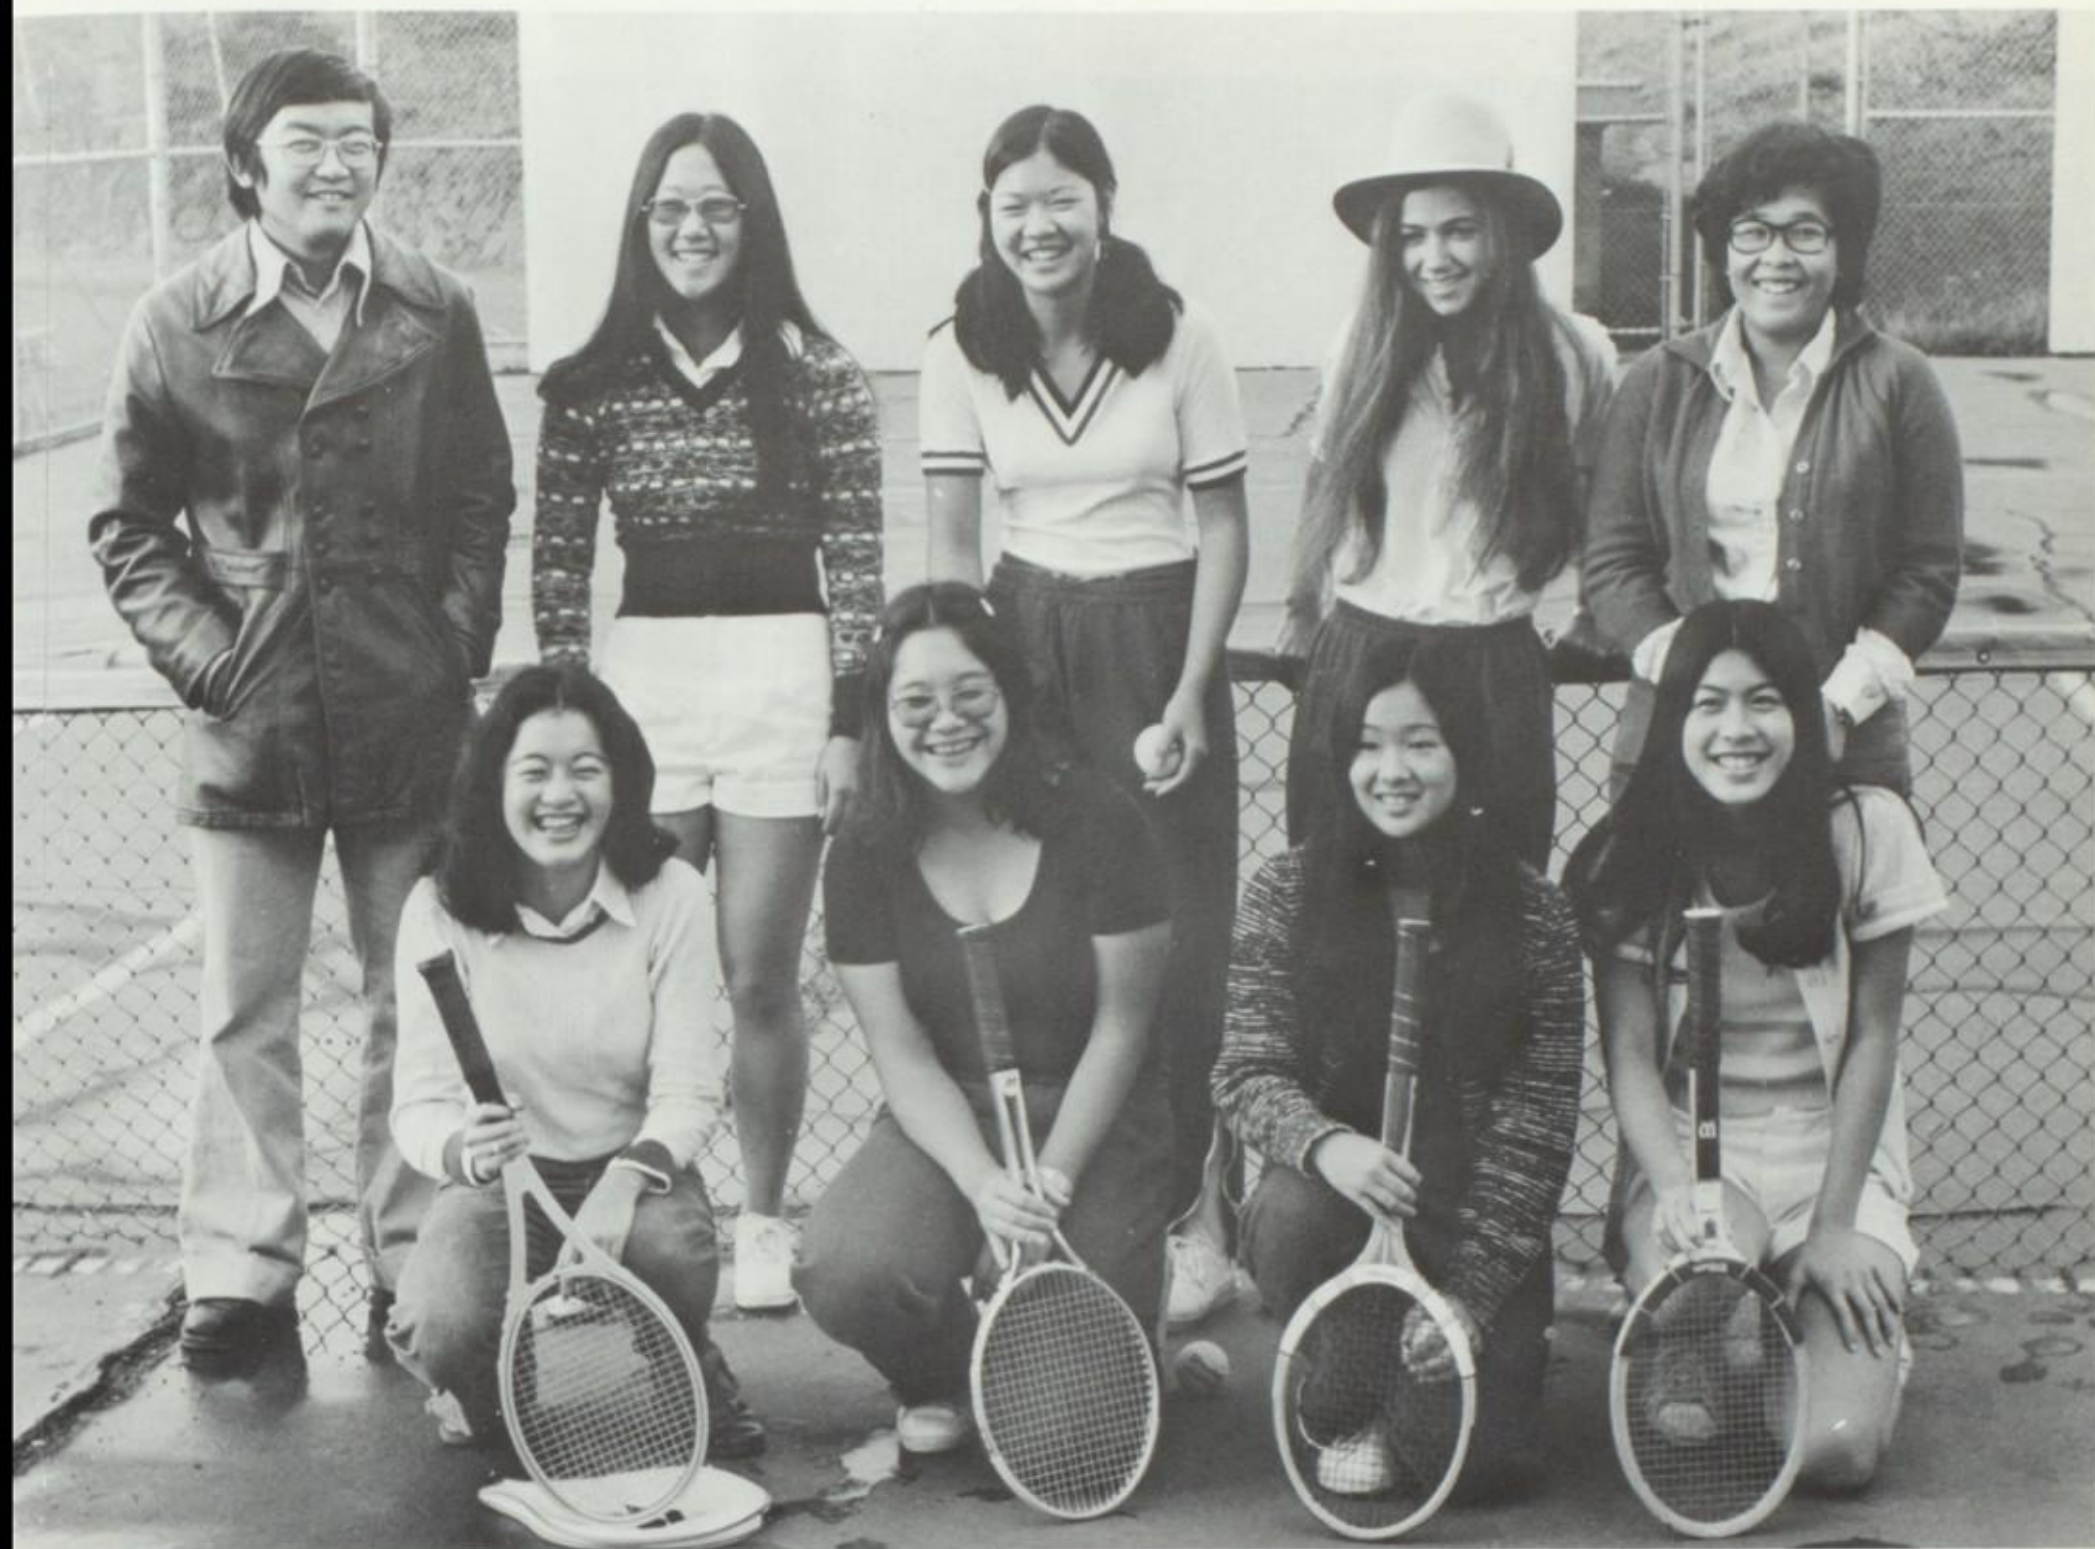

Overall, Franklin finished the season with an official record of 4 wins and 2 losses (forfeit included), placing third in the Metro South.

Clockwise from left: After a hard fought match, the thrill of victory was expressed on the face of Doris Yee, inspirational winner; keeping your eye on the ball was the name of the game as Karen Ishii was captured in the middle of her serve; and Cindy Mar, team captain, showed the poise and steadiness which placed her 4th in the singles of the Metro finals.

Varsity Basketball

Under the coaching of Dave Belmonte and Robert Johnson, the varsity squad compiled a season record of 13-8, including the Holiday Christmas Tournament and various play-off games.

Despite discouraging pre-season ratings, this talented group of young men rose quickly as a power in the race for second place in the Southern Division. Behind the unbeatable Garfield Bulldogs was a race for the second spot between the Franklin Quakers and Cleveland Eagles.

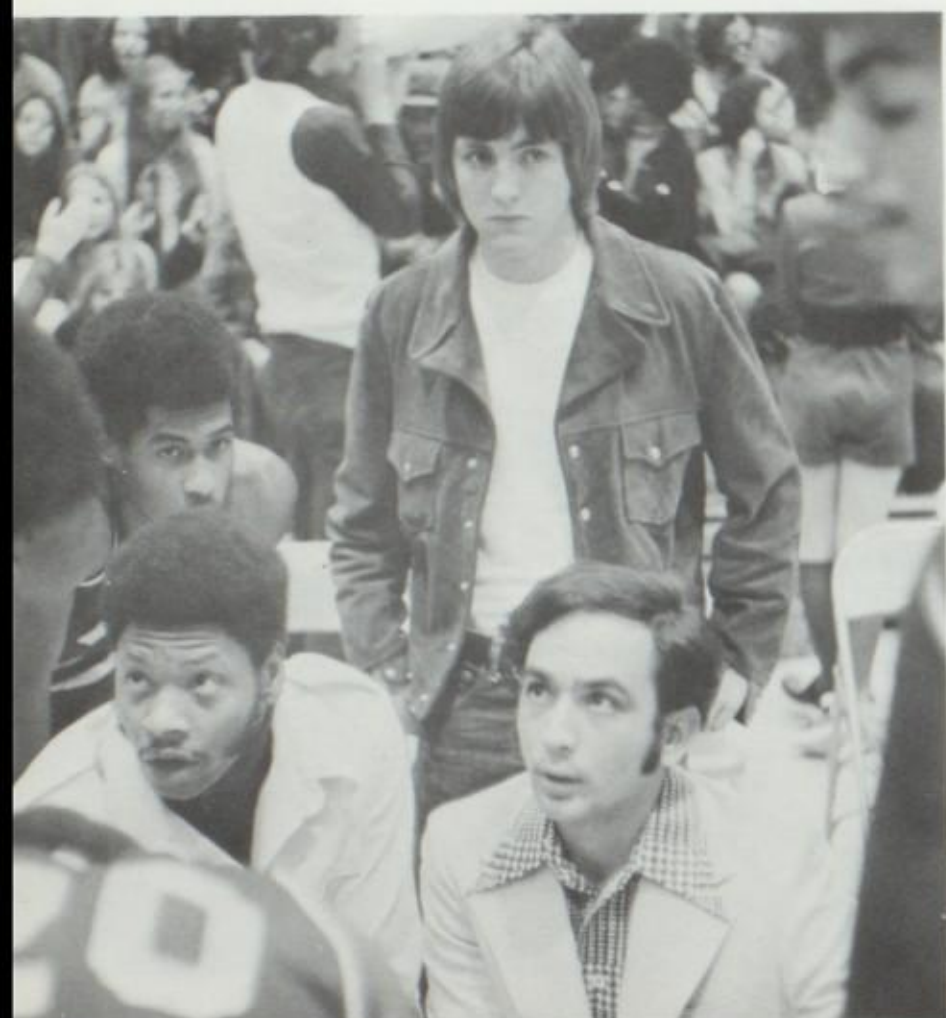

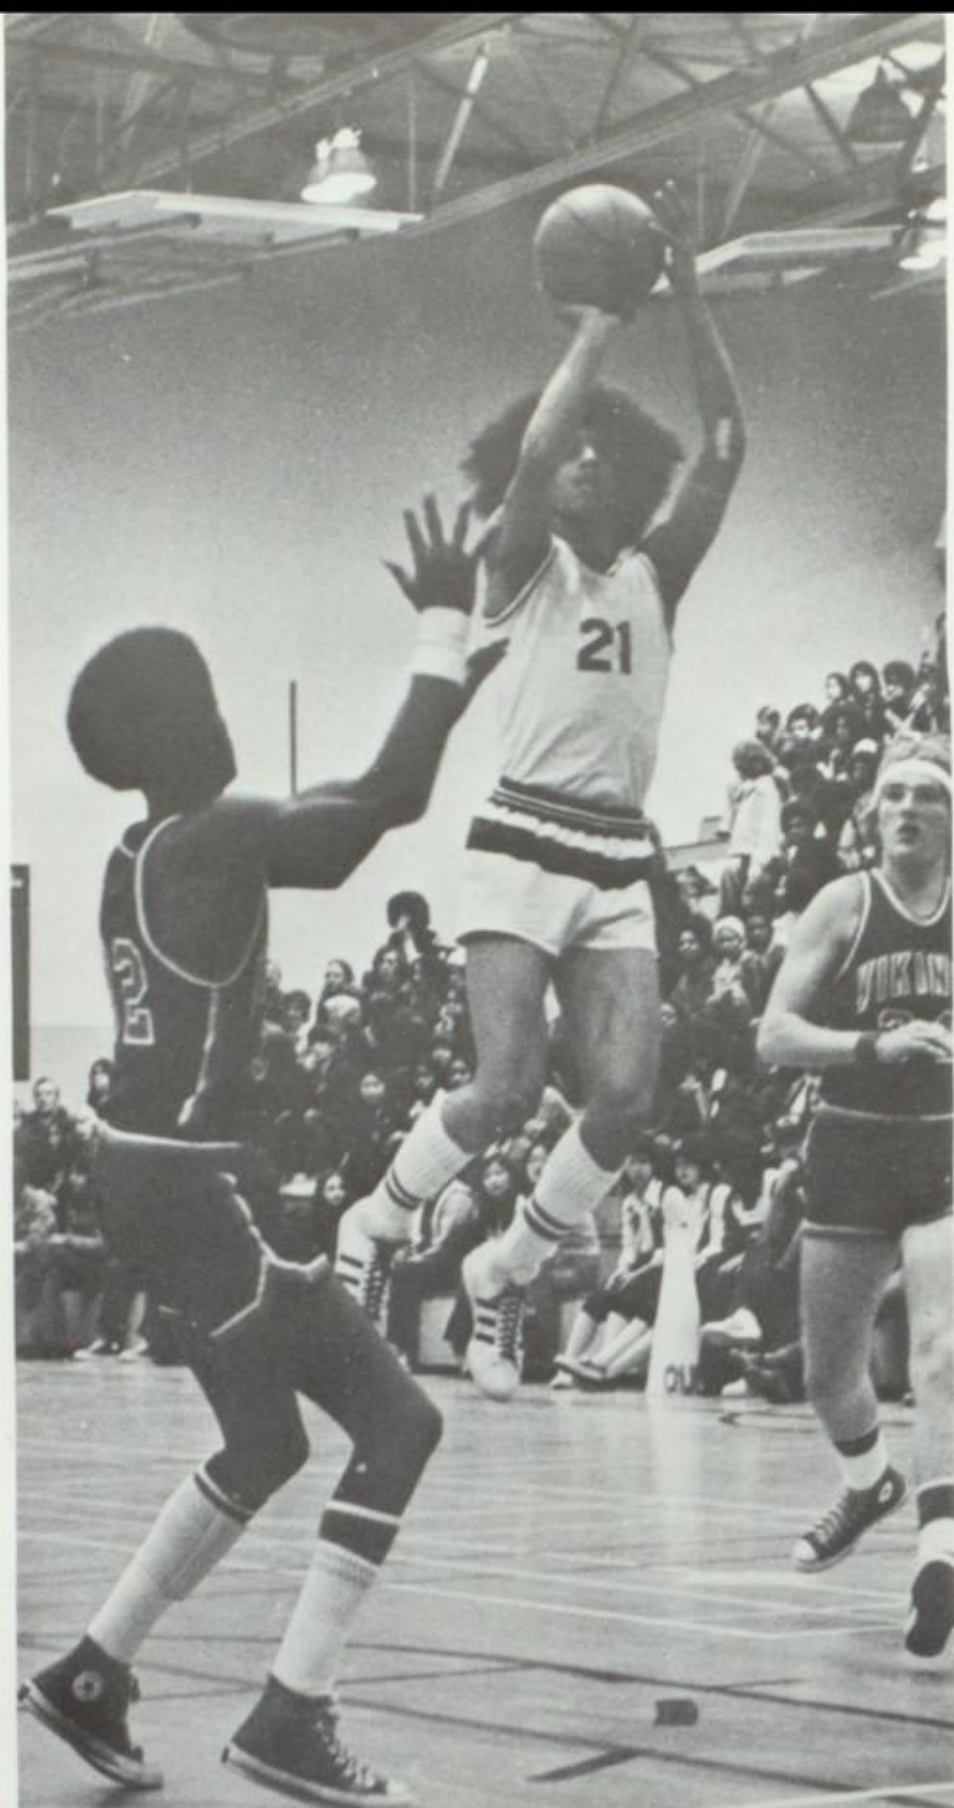

In a final play-off game against Cleveland, the Quakers lost, which destroyed their chances for Metro league play-offs, but still retained a chance for them in the regionals.

Clockwise from above: Always of great assistance in the clutch, Robert Nellams prepared himself for two; the 1974 varsity managers were (left to right): George Nagata, John Mar, Diane Franklin, Robbie Turner, Gerrell Grondin, and Paul Gonzales; and fans this season were captivated by Captain Trent Johnson as he put up what went in so naturally, a jump shot.

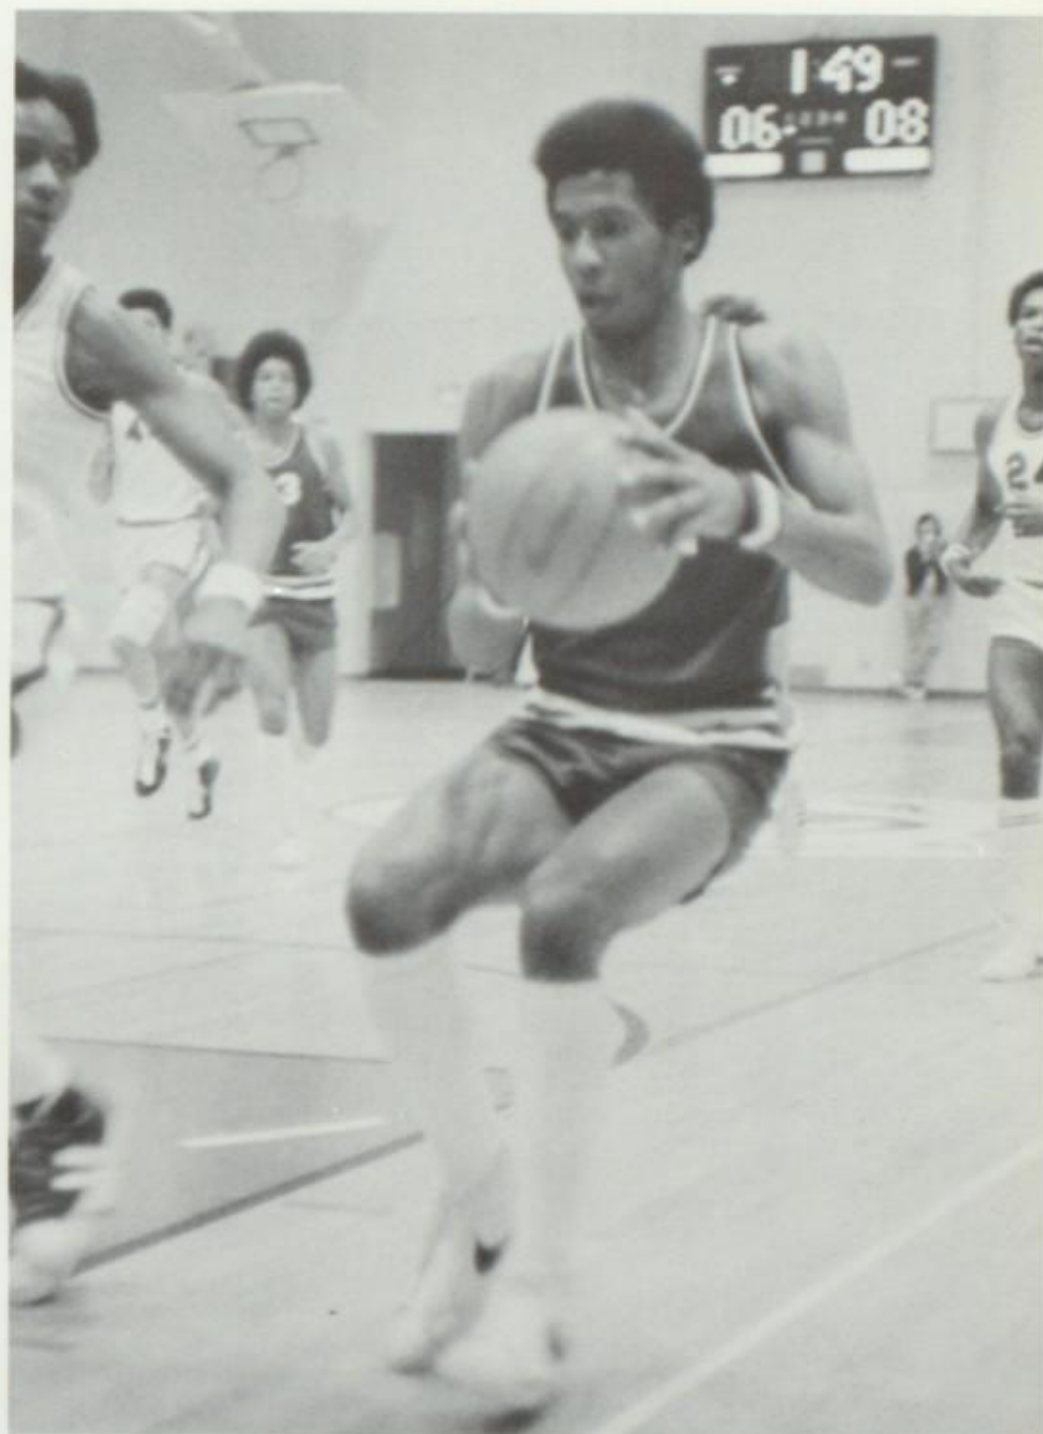

Clockwise from top right: Two points and always more by Erwin Tinner were regular occurrences this season, be it a result of one of his lay-ins or jump shots as he demonstrated in this picture; famous for his quick moves and highly successful lay-ins, Robert Delgado put in another two points at the hoop; and Herb Kiekenapp (out of uniform) and Wayne Floyd absorbed all the information they could from Coaches Johnson and Belmonte during a time out.

Varsity Scores

The Quaker junior varsity basketball team ended their successful season in third place in Metro's Southern Division. This hard working squad of talented young men tallied a season record of 11 wins and 5 losses, including their victory over the Newport junior varsity.

Their coach, Robert Johnson, was happy with this very coachable team and regarded the season as, "better than anticipated" and "a good learning process."

Clockwise from above: The ball was up and so was Kenny Banks (21) under the anxious eyes of teammates Skip Foutch (33), Richard Johnson (31), and Larry Landry (40); setting his sights for an open man, Lavelle Standifer, guard, penetrated a rugged zone defense; and despite a surrounding sea of white, Skip Foutch managed to rock the boat with a classic jump shot.

Women's Basketball

This ever improving group of young ladies battled their way through a 14 game season to end up third best in the Southern Division. They finished behind an always dominating Garfield team and a strong Sealath squad, not quite up to their preseason hopes.

Clockwise from left: Nina Vicors (15) on the move driving for the basket; all it took was one mighty leap and the ball was tipped to the Quakers thanks to Teresa Watanabe (14); finding herself trapped was Karan Williams (23) while Debbie Whitfield (11) and Annette Louie (21) broke for the hoop; and intense concentration and an eye for accuracy are the prerequisites for a "bucket" as demonstrated by Terri Graham.

A very promising women's gymnastics squad started the season with quite a bit of depth, potential and full of hope, only to finish a disappointing third in the Metro South. Coached by Karyn Denecke, this talented squad of gymnasts compiled a season record of 3 wins and 3 losses.

Clockwise from above: Surely to get points for cuteness, Julie Tanagi presented a final salute to the judges after a performance on the trampoline; Debbie Bariquit showed the poise and confidence it takes to execute a routine on the balance beam; and tense concentration was reflected on the face of Rosalyn Bass, the only Franklin representative in the regional meet, as she worked the lower portion of the uneven parallel bars. (Shown on page 70 — Lorraine Otani.)

Wrestling

Lack of wrestlers in certain weight classifications put Franklin at a definite disadvantage going into all their matches this season. The team was forced to forfeit at least four or five weight classes every match, thus automatically giving those points to their opponents.

Small in number, but big in determination, this group of young men won no matches all season. However, their perserverance and dedication still ranked them high on the list of athletic participation and involvement.

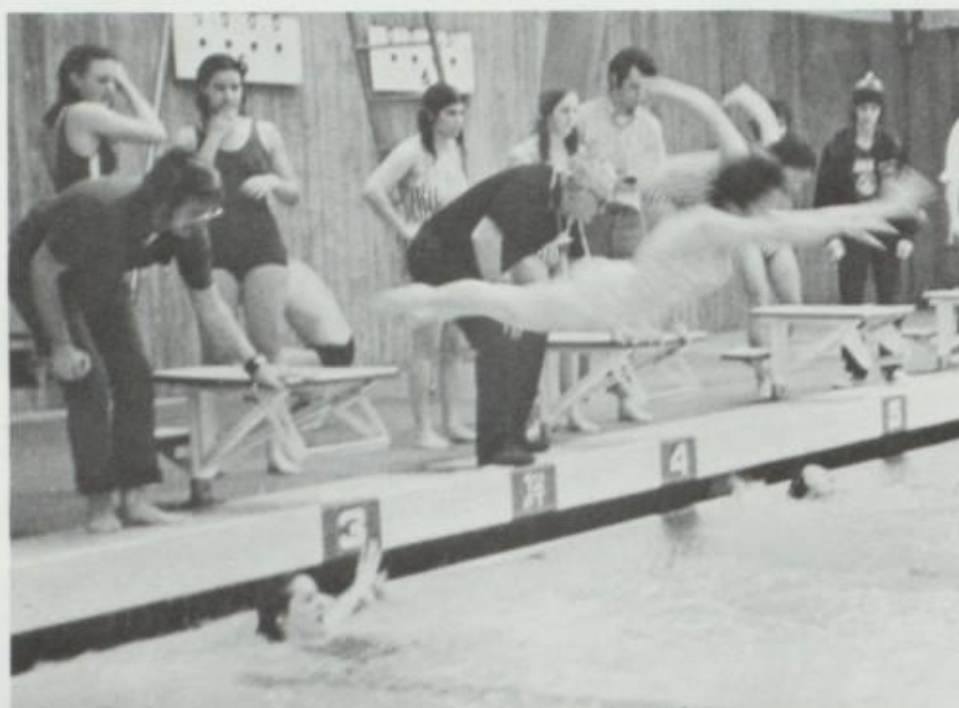

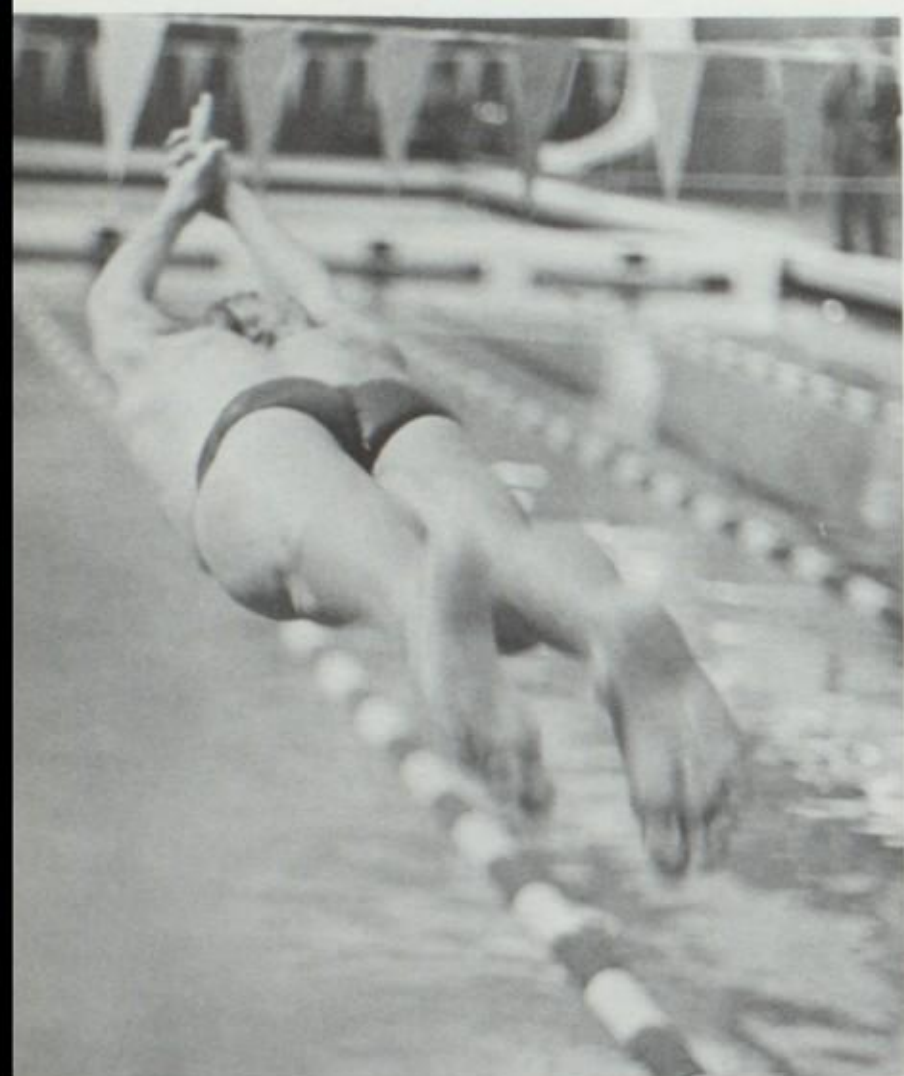

Clockwise from top left: The whistle blew beginning another round for wrestler, Ray Williams; victory was evident on the face of wrestling superstar, Leon Gordon; intensely involved and dedicated to win this round was an unidentified Franklin wrestler who poured on his strength; and another well known Franklin wrestler, Craig Marbet, tussled with his opponent in an effort to achieve the ultimate goal, a pin.

Swimming

Despite a rather small turnout, the Franklin swim team did keep its head above water and above the cellar of the B Division. The dual meet record of 2 wins and 4 losses reflected the hardships of a small but talented team competing against the other larger teams of the division. The victories were over Rainier Beach and Cleveland and they managed to overshadow the disappointment felt by the whole team over the fact that no one qualified for the Metro finals.

*I'm just beginning to see;
Now I'm on my way*

The Class of '75, under the supervision of Phil Blix, started off the junior year with a car wash on September 22. A successful and profitable "Franklin Quaker" pin sale followed in October. With the arrival of Christmas, juniors decked the halls and the Christmas spirit prevailed. Assorted activities and fund-raising events also filled the calendar.

The Evening:

*Evening has come to pass; the time of day doesn't last,
Evening has earned its place today;
I'm tired of working away.*

*Live all you people; you can see where you're at,
It doesn't really hurt you;
there's no time to turn back.*

away 'til next day.*

Productions

*Evening . . . time to get away

Bel Canto Choir

The Bel Canto Choir was featured in various events throughout Franklin and the city. Their performances included the Winter and Spring Concerts, caroling at the Washington Plaza, and singing at convalescent homes and churches. The Bel Canto Choir was under the direction of David Pence.

Swing Choir

"You Can't Take It With You"

The cast that presented "You Can't Take It With You," was (standing): Peter Kimes, Marcie Amira, Tim Wirth, Peter Williams, Sue Oberto, David Orme, Martha Lindley, Jack Johnson, Joel Evans, John Keister, Barb Swain, Rose Saperstein, and Bill Smith, (kneeling): Kathy Page, Jimmy Farrington, Sean McCormick, Paula Togawa, and Chris Miyamoto.

The Franklin High School fall production was the play "You Can't Take It With You," by Moss Hart and George Kaufman. This epic centered around two young lovers and the comical conflicts between their families. The play was directed by Paul Nicholas who was assisted by John Ogasawara, technical director; and Holly Croce, assistant director.

Concert Band

Concert Band, led by Chuck Chinn, consisted of 104 members. They performed at many events throughout the year. The band played at all football games, and the Fall, Winter, Spring, and Pops Concerts. Many pep assemblies featured their music, as did the graduation exercises.

Out of school, Concert Band went Christmas caroling at rest homes, appeared on the CBS Variety Telethon, at the All-City Band Festival, and at Expo '74 in Spokane.

Chuck Chinn, assisted by James Gardner, Franklin's composer in residence, led the Jazz Lab through many successful appearances. They performed at the Pops Concert, and basketball and pep assemblies. "Stolen Moments" was the first of their concerts and at later performances professional musicians and other jazz groups joined them.

Around the city the Jazz Lab played at Sonics' games and were invited to perform in jazz festivals at Green River and Everett Community Colleges, Olympic College, Clark College in Vancouver, and the University of Portland. The Jazz Lab held many fund raising activities to make money for a trip to Boston.

Jazz Lab

Samoan Ensemble

Franklin's Samoan dancers highlighted many events in and around Franklin. They brought their traditional dances and chants to the Jewish Community Center on Mercer Island, Nathan Hale High School, and various elementary schools. The dancers also traveled to Richmond, Washington for the music convention. Lynne Jessup advised the dancers.

African Drum Ensemble

Authenticity was the goal of this year's African Drum Ensemble. Through their rhythm and dance they brought the spirit of traditional Africa to Franklin. They displayed their talents at Edmonds High School, the University of Washington, Highline Community College and at the music convention in Richmond, Washington. Instructing the ensemble was Lynne Jessup.

“The Grass Harp”

"The Grass Harp" by Truman Capote was Franklin's winter production. The plot involved the Talbo household disputes, one sister trying to steal a precious dropsy cure from the other, and their attempts of escape from reality. Paul Nicholas directed with Lynne Fisse, assistant director; and Jamie Chivers, stage manager.

Clockwise from left: Dolly, Doreen Terao, comforted her sister Verena, Marcie Amira: the preacher, Mark Westlund, and the preacher's wife, Kim Smith, told the town members of Dolly's disappearance: Miss Baby Love Dallas, a cosmetic salesgirl, portrayed by Helen Pope, discussed business with Dr. Morris Ritz, a con artist, played by Jimmy Farrington; and Collin, Darrel Mamallo, told the judge, Bob Stroup, about his past, while Dolly listened sadly.

Seniors

*Evening has come to pass,

John Keister, Paula Togawa, and Peter Williams at the circus.

Live all you people, you can see where you're at.

"I'm looking at myself, reflections of my mind."

Sunset

*When the sun goes down
And the clouds all frown
Night has begun

*See it with your eyes
Earth re-energized
By the sun's rays
everyday
Take a look up there
Planets everywhere.*

*Shadows on the ground Never make a sound
Fading away In the sunset
Night has now become Day for everyone.*

*I can see it all From this great height
I can feel the sun Slipping out of sight
And the world Still goes on Through the night.*

Cold hearted orb
that rules the night
Removes the colours
from our sight
Red is grey and yellow white
But we decide which is right,
And which is an illusion?

TIME

Sophomore Week

Diane Franklin and Nancy Felder looked over the sophomore goodies at the Bake Sale while Dorrienne Mar, Dale Eng, Kathy Chinn, and Esther Kimura served as clerks.

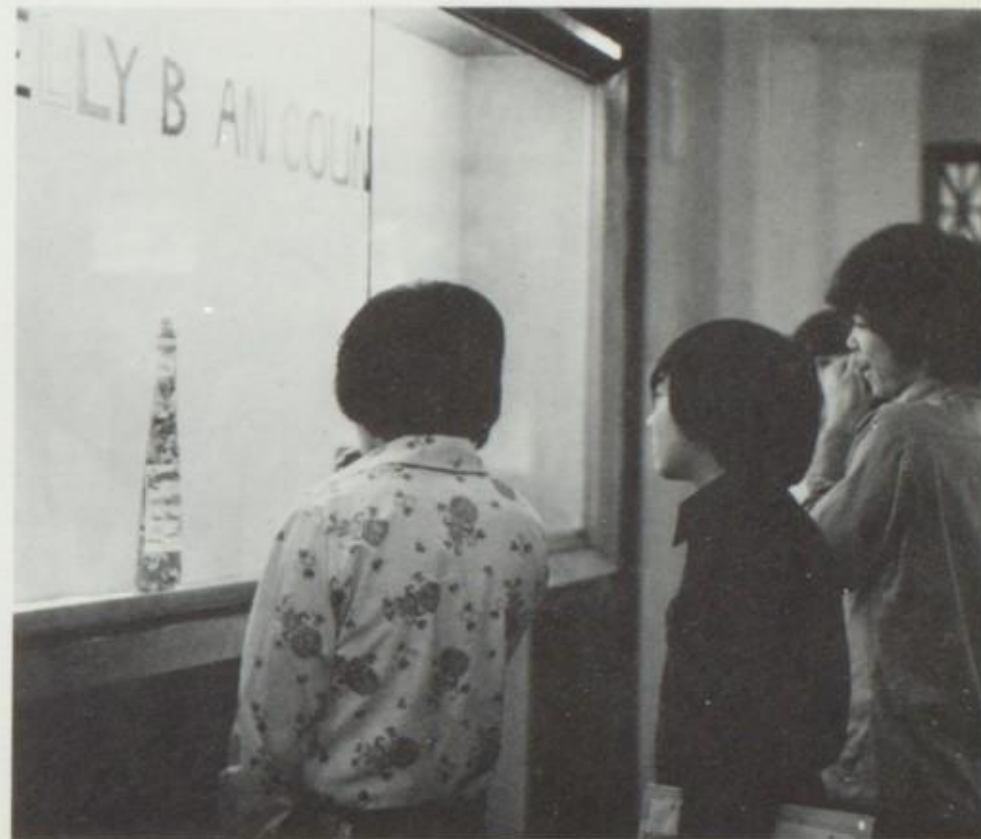

Helen Pope was one of the satisfied customers of the Sophomore Sucker Sale. Looking on enviously was Kate Esparza.

Greg McKinney and Benita Bryant step out to be the winners of the Sophomore Dance Contest. They each received an album of their choice.

Activities were plentiful during Franklin's first Sophomore Week, held March 4-8. The energetic class began the events with a See's Sucker Sale, headed by Shirley Wah, and a Jelly Bean Contest, planned by Kenny Wong and Richard Helling. Enthusiasm prevailed at the Bake Sale and Dance Contest which were supervised by Crevin Ko, president. The spirited week concluded with a car wash which earned them $70.00

Ethnic Week

Student, faculty and community efforts were all a part of Ethnic Week, held March 18-22. Five designated days, Native American and Chicano Day, Island Day, Continental and Mediterranean Day, Asian Day, and Afro Day drew interest to programs which included fashion shows, martial arts demonstrations, cultural dances and folk songs.

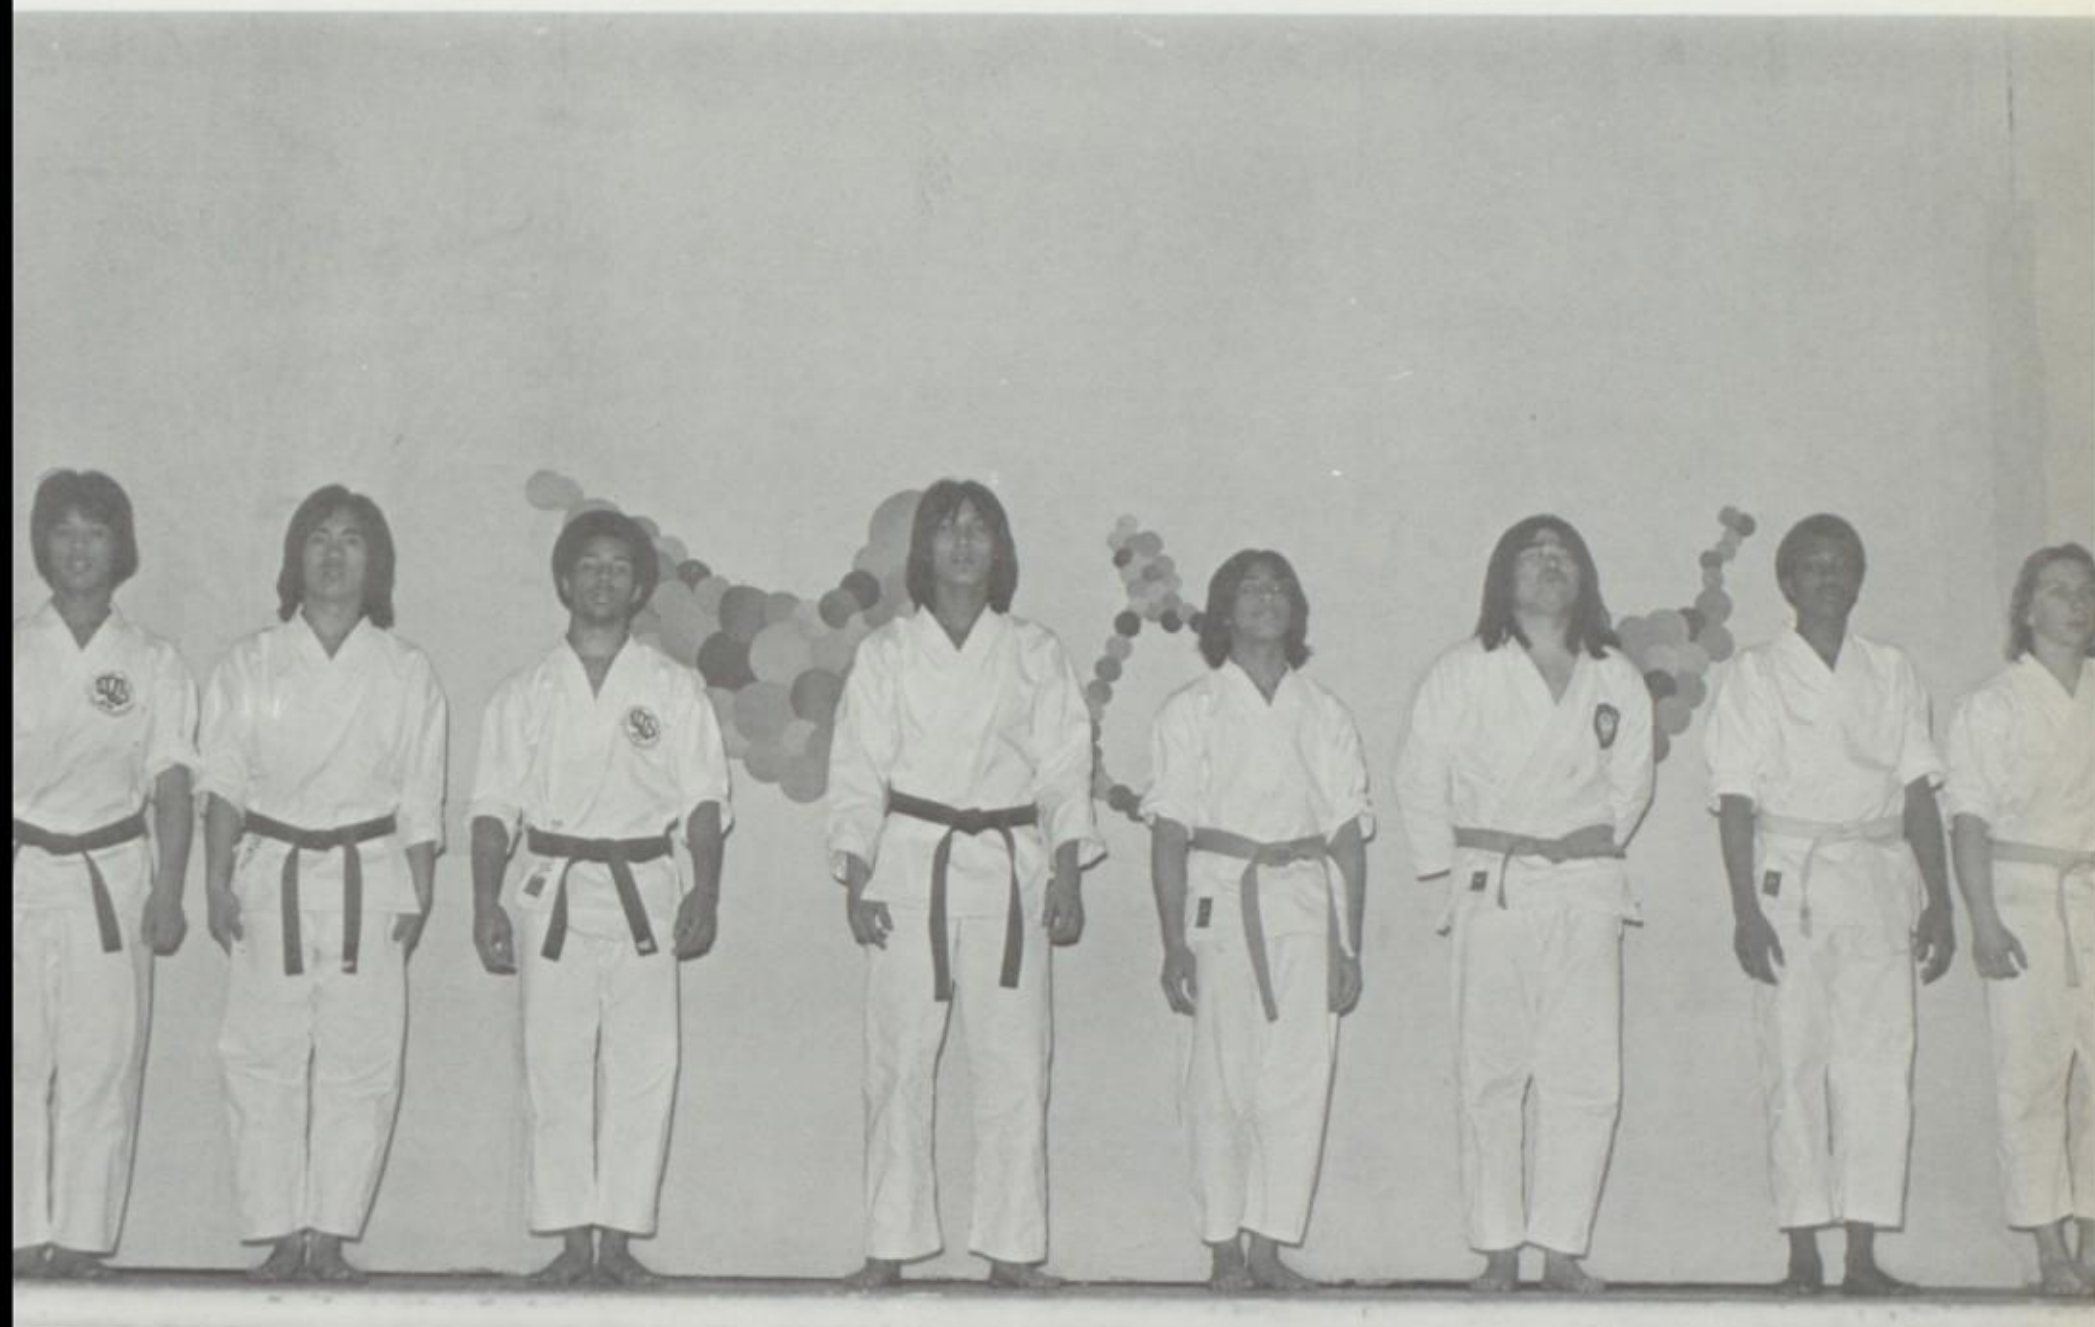

A variety of foods were sold during the week, some of them were burritos, lumpia, sasumi, and hot dogs. The traditional International Dinner offered roast pig, teriyaki chicken, bean salad, and sapa sui.

Junior Week

The Class of '75 showed their spirit by hosting various activities during Junior Week. The fun-filled agenda consisted of a Hom Bow Sale, a Junior Class Pin Sale, a Balloon Guessing Contest, an Ice Cream Sale, a Doughnut Eating Contest, and a Banquet Dinner at the Old Spaghetti Factory. The champions of the Junior week contests were Sharon Taki for the balloon guessing, and Tuiaana Iefata with 12 doughnuts in eight minutes during the Doughnut Eating Contest; which was an unsuccessful attempt to break the world's record of 20 doughnuts in 15 minutes. Successfully, the juniors showed that they carried their theme, "We've Got It Together '75," well throughout the week.

Clockwise top left: Doris Yee and Gary Lee made a successful sales pitch to Carter Nakashima as gullible Terry Saiki tries a tantalizing Hom Bow; the contest rules allowed washing doughnuts down with water and feeling sick, as Vicki Armstrong and Nathan Fox made a hopeful attempt to break a world's record; and "One scoop or two?" was the question Joan Robertson asked as she "dug in" to help at the Ice Cream Sale, Mary Peterson looking on.

“No, No Nanette”

Helen Pope portrayed the sarcastic maid, Pauline.

"No, No, Nanette" revolves around the changing morals of the 1920's. Jimmy Smith's innocent escapades with three lovely girls creates a hectic atmosphere that leads to confusion at the climax of the play. The production was directed by Paul Nicholas. Assisting were: Sue Oberto, student director; Sue Haycock, choreographer; Leigh Grant, assistant choreographer.

Clockwise from bottom left: Kim Smith (Sue Smith) and Joel Evans (Jimmy Smith) tapped to "I Want to Be Happy"; "You can dance with any girl at all, as long as you come home with me!" said Lucille Early (portrayed by Martha Lindley) to Billy Early (portrayed by Peter Williams); Tom (Dan Van Hook) and Nanette (Robin Asher) went tea dancing during "Tea for Two;" and Mary Peterson (Winnie Winslow), Nora Mar (Betty Brown), and Holly Croce (Flora Lathan) assumed the characters of three conniving women.

Soccer

With preseason hopes running high, Franklin's top-rated booters kicked-off their season with a win and maintained that win streak throughout the entire season. Under the guidance of rookie coach, Duane Munro, this deserving group of athletes completed their year on top of the Southern Division.

"Finesse" was the key word when describing the ball handling techniques used by this talented group and "successful" was the word to relate to about the season in general.

Driving for a goal, Inspirational winner, Matthew Tom, raced down the field.

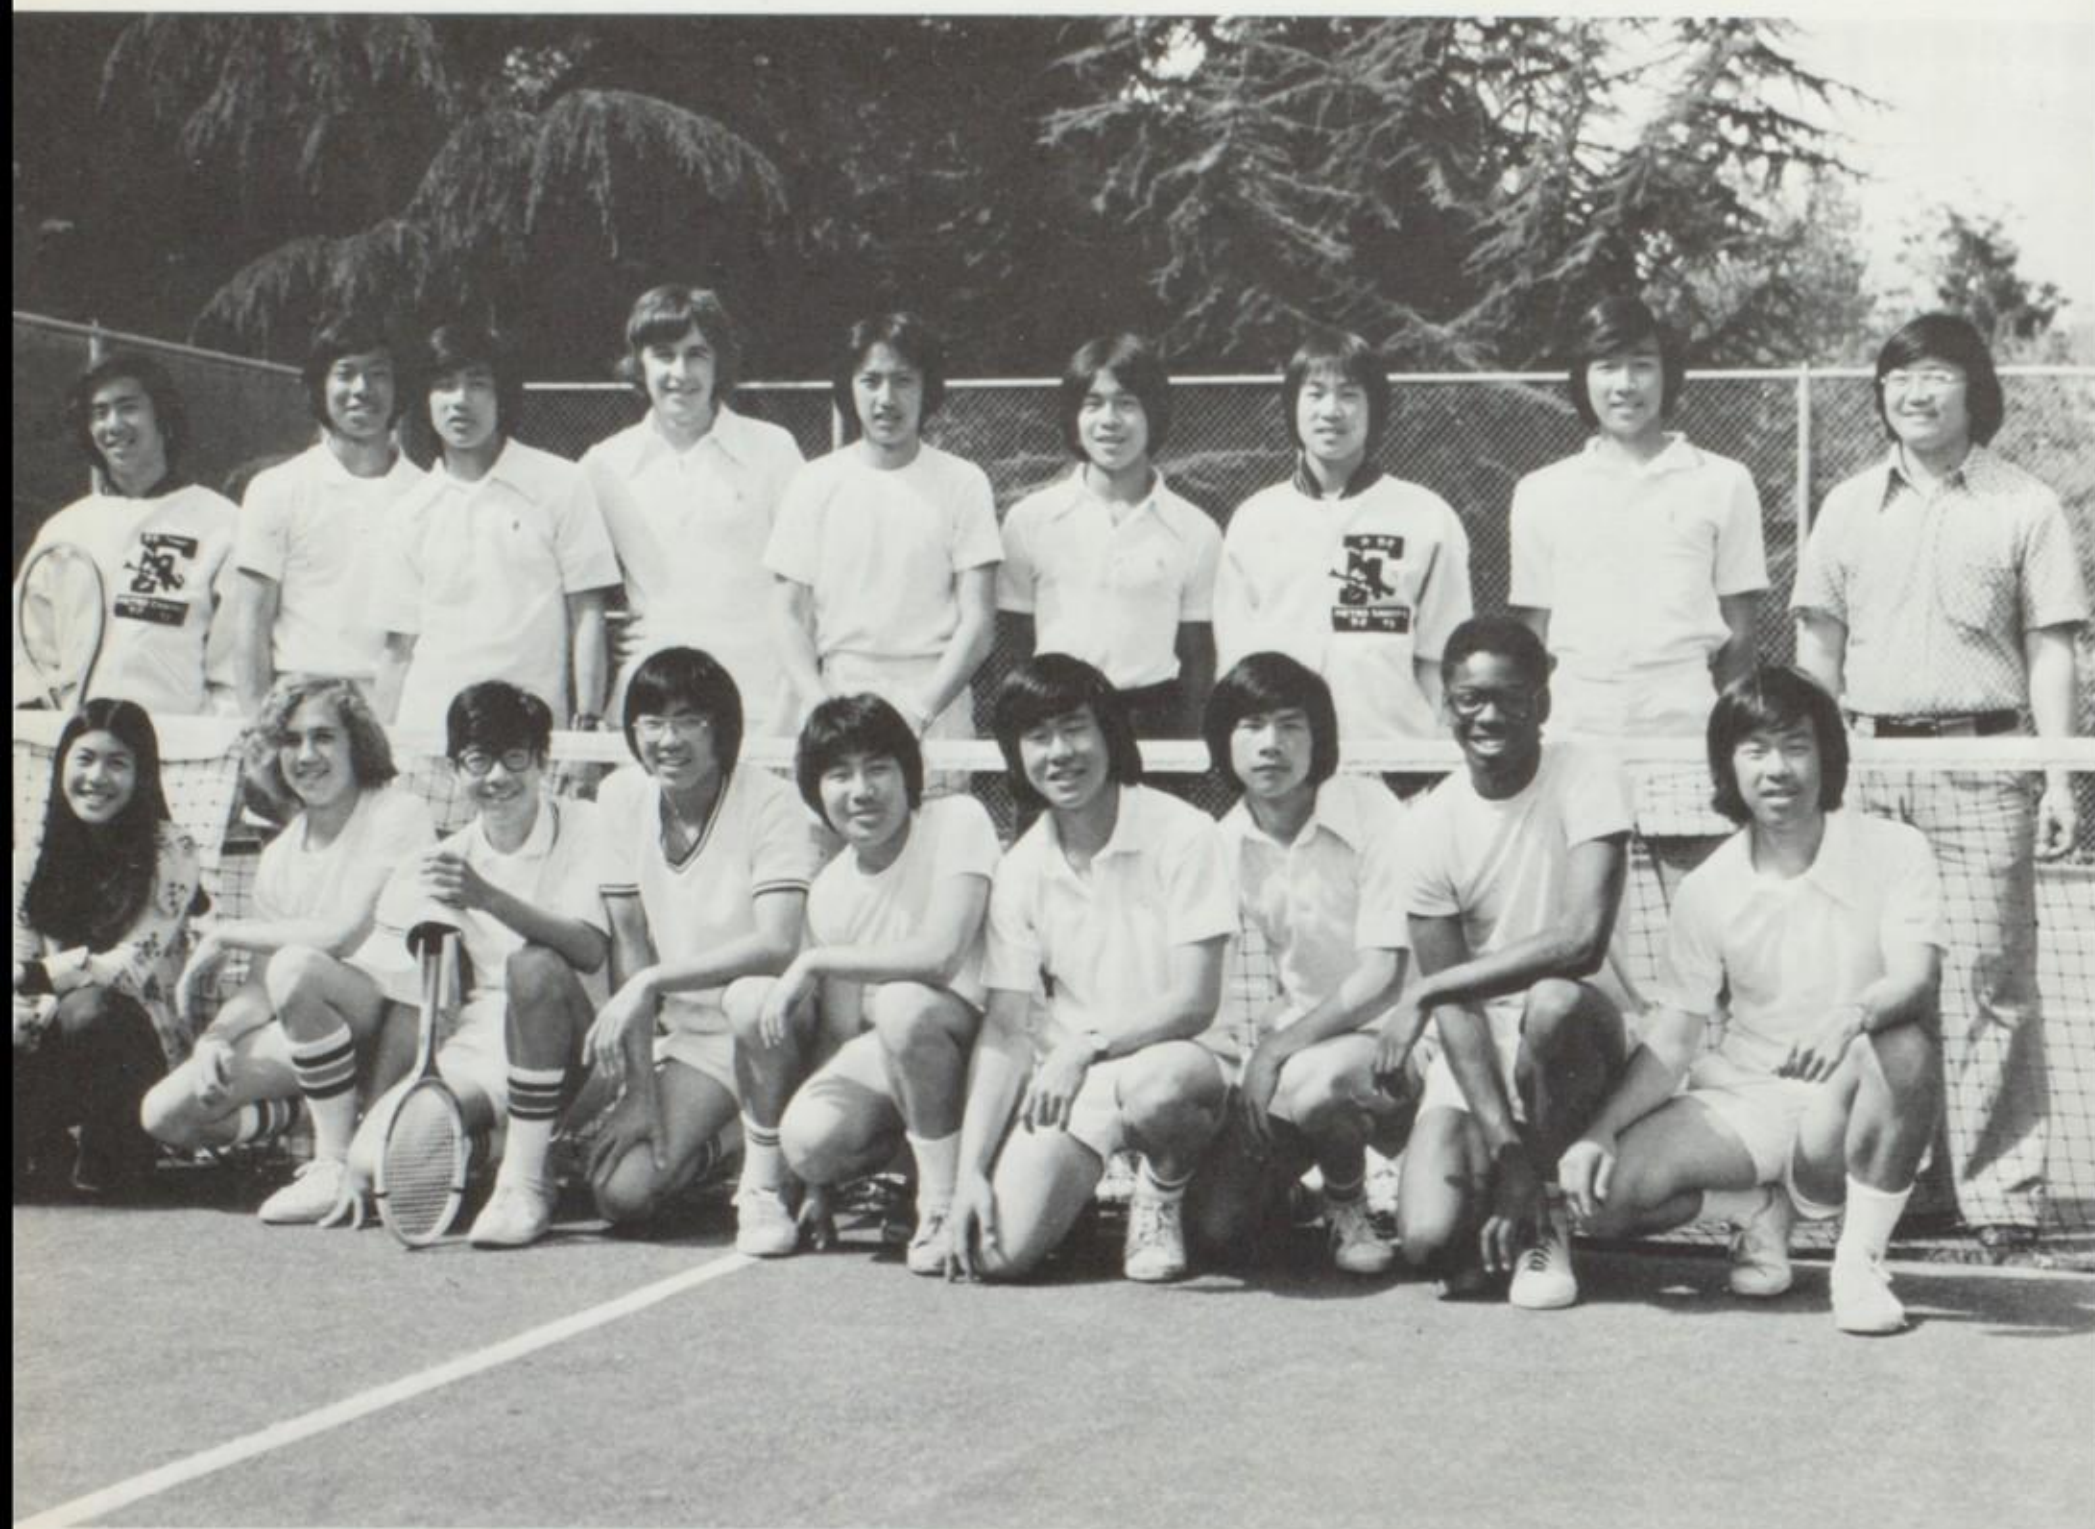

Keeping his defender behind him and the ball in front of him was Paul Lau, the number two goal scorer in Metro.

Leaving his defender behind on the turf, Joe Wong charged the opposition's goal with Sam Wong escorting the attack.

Men's Tennis

Franklin's tennis team opened their season as defenders of the Metro crown and true to preseason predictions, finished at the top of their division, only to be defeated by Nathan Hale in the championship match. Coached by Gordy Yee this outstanding bunch compiled a record of 6-0 for the regular season.

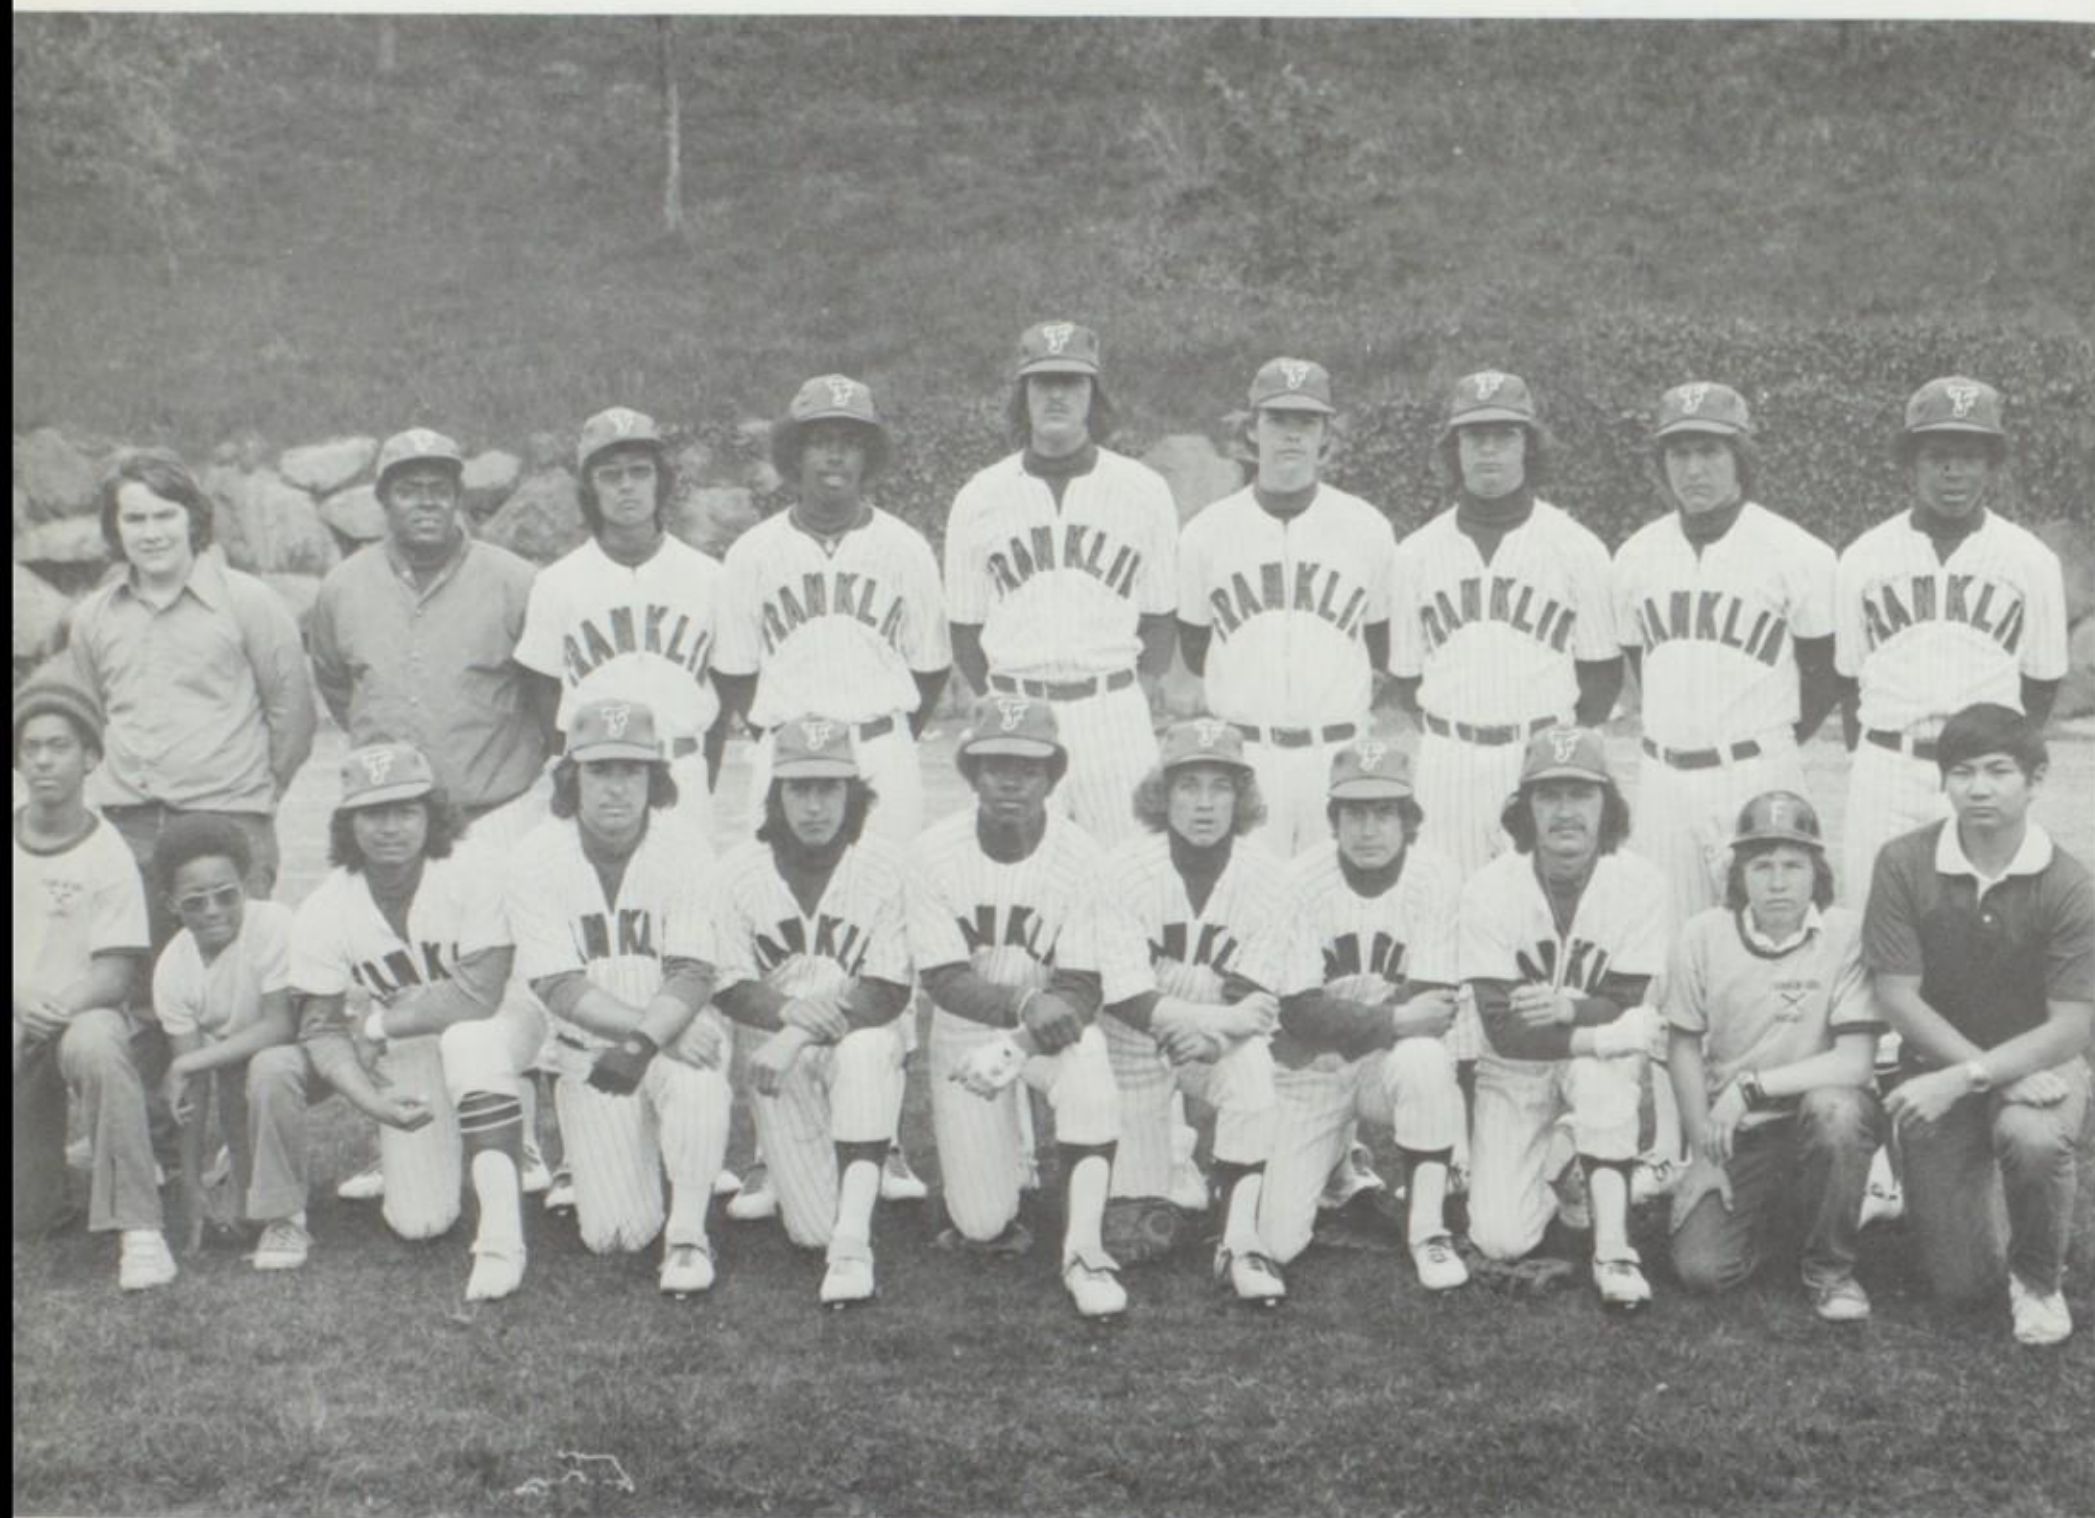

Clockwise from right: No. 1 singles man, Wayne Kawakami, followed through on a return; Robert Taki quickly and gracefully returned a difficult shot; under the watchful eye of doubles partner Terry Luke, Wes Hashimoto sent the ball into the opposite court; and skillfully executed forehand shot came in handy for Wes Hashimoto as he returned a ball aimed low at his knees.

Baseball

Aided by such talents as Rod "Moochie" Pierce, better known as the Quaker streak and holder of a probable Metro record in base stealing, this versatile group of young men ended their 1974 baseball season in third place in the Southern Division with a record of 7 wins and 5 losses. Their third place finish put them out of contention for any Metro League playoffs, but definitely still in the running for the number three berth in the AAA play offs.

Clockwise from above: Rounding second base and holding up just enough to be sure of his next move was second baseman, Chet Johnson; Quaker hurler, Jim Fauconnier, followed through on a pitch as an opposing batter awaited the approaching ball; Don Owen, Franklin outfielder, was caught in a full extension of his batting stance; and Varsity catcher, Ron Spino, demonstrated that alertness, which is the name of the game when you're behind the plate calling the shots.

J.V. Baseball

Franklin's Junior Varsity baseball team chalked up a 6-3 win-loss record and completed their season as the No. 3 team in the South. This promising group of athletes will provide the future varsity squads with the strength and talent needed to make a winning team.

Clockwise from bottom left: With concentration on his face, J.V. pitcher, Jeff Cordova, fired a pitch straight into the strike zone; Danny Santiago slid safely into third, leaving his defender scrambling for the ball; and letting his eyes leave the ball, Tim Hjelmaa, stretched for the base in a pick-off attempt at second.

Men's Gymnastics

A vastly improved men's gymnastics team appeared on the scene at Franklin this year and ended their season as the number seven team in Metro with one member qualifying for state. This hardworking group of young men compiled a record of 2 wins and 7 losses during the season, with six of the losses being by less than two points.

Women's Track

The women's track team ended their regular season with a rather disappointing fourth place in the South and then bounced back to finish sixth in Metro. This promising group of young ladies, which included only four seniors, clearly proved that being young and inexperienced doesn't mean you can't be good.

Clockwise from left: Putting out what seems to be a minimum of effort, Marianne Tomita went up and over a hurdle on her way to a hopeful victory with Annette Louie close behind; with winning on her mind, Mari Bell wound up and released her shot; breaking through another victory tape was Simone Jackson, Franklin's star in the 100 yard dash; and versatile young lady, Kim Chinn, was not only the No. 2 long jumper in the state, but as shown here, she was also a very successful competitor in the running events as well.

Men's Track

A relatively young and inexperienced team started the season with three wins. Then the team lost its first two dual meets in three years. The Quakers dropped one to the defending Metro Champs, Shoreline, and this year's Southern Division winner, Garfield.

Despite an injury plagued season, the tracksters managed to salvage third place in the South, and fifth place in the Metro finals.

Clockwise from left: The Southern Division's number one pole vaulter, Bryan Maruhashi, successfully cleared the 11'6" mark; caught in a tie with his opponent at this point of the race, Gary Kellar, strained for the extra energy needed to win this event; Joe Breaux, another Franklin star, chalked up another win with this victory in the 440; and Skip Foutch, Franklin's leading high jumper, is shown here on his way to victory and hopeful equal or better jump than his best of 6'3".

Golf

Golf was a sport which didn't quite catch on at Franklin, but those who did turn out for both the men's and women's teams this year contributed their time and energy to make Franklin's golf teams compact, but loaded with talent.

Franklin's state entry in the shot put event, Noel Barnes, released his winning shot on the way to victory.

Clockwise from top left: Veteran golfer, Kim Hardy, followed through on a putt; and Rose Saperstein was caught in the backswing of a chip shot onto the green.

THE ISLANDER

188 Seniors

With 150 students and 10 faculty members, the Islander set sail for Illahee State Park April 26. Despite the rain, people managed to amuse themselves in various manners during the 2½ hour ride. Once on the island, baseball, frisbies, and general beachcombing served as the entertainment, and a dinner prepared by the F.E.A.S.T. class was served. The sun appeared just long enough to bid the seniors farewell on their journey home.

Senior Luncheon

The Class of '74 held its Senior Luncheon at the Hilton Hotel, with the attire ranging from every day school clothes to tuxedos. One hundred seventy-five students and selected teachers enjoyed a three course meal, and then the entertainment began! Advisor Geoff Fox was "roasted," funny and serious awards were given to deserving seniors, and finally, music was provided by Rondel Harvey soloist, and a band consisting of Lee Turner, Ken Gorelick, Robert Damper, and David Yamasaki.

Many thanks to Mary Gilmore, chairman, Wendy Rock, chairman of entertainment, and all the other people who helped to make the Luncheon the success it was.

Clockwise from bottom left: Martin Patricelli roasted "the Fox" to a crisp; M.C. John Keister took over the show; and "Most Outgoing," Wendy Rock, welcomed the seniors to their luncheon.

Awards

Honor Society Awards Assembly

Quaker Day Assembly

Barbara Young was caught in full stride (right) as she ran away with the Tom McCurdy Award, and an enthused crowd admired the trophy (above).

AWARDS AND TROPHIES: Walter Reseburg Service, John Ogasawara. Tom McCurdy, Wayne Kawakami and Barbara Young. Ken Schoenfield, Robin Asher and Ken Gorelick. Ralph Eronemo, Ken Chin and Kim Chinn. Athlete of the Year, Noel Barnes and Ann Watanabe.

The Franklin Thespians staged their own assembly at a picnic for the announcement of Thespians' honors. The Best Actor went to John Kiester, Best Actress went to Martha Lindley, Kathy Page was named the Best Trouper, and the Best Thespian was Paula Togawa.

Clockwise from top left: Ken Gorelick, a golfer on the course, was awarded the Ken Schoenfield Trophy by Dave Belmonte; an all-around sports athlete, Ann Watanabe, was presented the female Athlete of the Year Award; Ken Chin, track star, made another run to victory, this time to capture the Ralph Eronemo Award presented by Robert Johnson, and the Walter Reseburg Service Award for service beyond the call of duty was presented to John Ogasawara by O.L. Mitchell.
